A REMARKABLE GOLD DISCOVERY.

Amazement in Colorado Over the Result of the Wynn Process of Treating Ores—Many Skeptics.

DENVER, COLO., November 28.—What may be described as the Wynn process of treating ores is causing greater excitement and consternation in Colorado than the repeal of the Sherman act. In spite of the almost universal skepticism with which the first reports of its success were met, no one has been able to account for the huge gold buttons obtained from day to day from castaway and supposedly valueless materials of the mines and mills.

One of the leading metallurgists of the state, who has followed the experiments cynically, admitted today that he believed one of the greatest discoveries of modern times had been made.

Senator Henry M. Teller, whose brother Willard is the chief backer of the discovery, spent several days in the laboratory of the company. He started his investigations with the belief that his brother, one of the most sagacious and prudent men in the state, was the victim of a huge confidence operation. He ended by confessing utter discomfiture and amazement, and offered to supply his brother with any funds he might require for the installation of the large plant in contemplation.

If the discovery is what is asserted, and what many conservative men deem already proved, the imagination is too feeble to grasp the momentary revolution it fore-shadows. As an illustration of the actualities of experiment the experience of General Manager C. W. Holdridge, of the Burlington, may be cited. He tested 325 pounds of tailings from Owyhee county, Idaho, where he is interested in mining. The fine assay of the lot showed a value of $1 in gold and 13 ounces of silver, or less than $9 to the ton. The Wynn process yielded a button from the shipment weighing 42.62 in gold, or $262.25 a ton.

Here are some of the results obtained from Colorado ores:

From Apex, 490 pounds; fire assay value, $15; gold button by the Wynn process, $114; ton value, $130.

Uncle Sam mine, Summit county, 500 pounds sample; fire assay value trace of gold; Wynn process button, $55.92; or $223.68 ton value.

Alice mine, Gilpin county, 500 pounds; fire assay value, $5 a ton; Wynn process value, $250.68 gold a ton.

Placer sand from Dry creek, east of Denver, 500 pounds; fire assay trace; Wynn button, $20.62 or $80 a ton.

Woodland park ore 1000 pounds; fire assay, $1 per ton; Wynn process $215.20 a ton.

Gunnell mine, Gilpin county, 60 pounds; fire assay, $6 a ton; Wynn process, $213.12 a ton.

Red sand from Mexico; fire assay, $6 a ton; Wynn process, $148 a ton.

Black Hawk concentrates $10 per ton by fire assay, $166 by the Wynn process.

Ironclad mine, Cripple creek, $640 to the ton by fire assay, by the Wynn process, $1182.

And thus the tests have averaged during their months of experimentation, with the singular exception that in the case of certain high-grade ores relatively small advances of value are made.

The treatment costs from $50 to $60 a ton. Almost pure gold is obtained, much of it running .989 fine. The United States mint gives .931 fine on one recent lot, and a local refiner .986 on another. The standard gold coin are .800 fine. "The process gives to us practically the control of the gold output of the world."

When Wynn enlisted the interest of Willard Teller he was destitute. That was several months ago. Mr. Teller and his associate, Sidner Williams, practically experienced in mining like himself, have experimented with and investigated Wynn with as much persistence as they have his discovery. With the aid of detective bureaus they have procured the history of his life, and know that he is indigent—positively without resources. They are well assured, and have been for some time, that he could not "gall" them if he desired.

They have purchased the ingredients of the secret solution at home and abroad; secured their own samples and treated them independently—always obtaining the same bewildering results. They have barren materials, such as petrified wood, to pulp, and given it to Wynn for treatment, besides testing it themselves, and never found a trace of gold. They have left no expedient or device untried that might prove Wynn a fraud and disillusion themselves.

For three months they have pursued their researches secretly, doubting the while and dreading less friends learn what they were doing and ridicule them. When they incorporated they suppressed the filing record. They have never sold a share of stock, and decline to do so at any price.

The three men, Teller, Williams and Wynn, are bound by a contract not to market their shares or divulge their secret. And when the last word is said, Teller and Williams are two of the most reputable, responsible and sagacious men in the state.

Prof. Wynn says: "My theory is that all the process generally known are unreliable. A great part of the gold we recovered is so fine that after it is thoroughly dried it will float in the air. This seems to show that the air may carry gold, and we know from experiments that water from a number of gold mines is heavily charged with gold. We have recovered as much as 10 per cent in gold from a gallon of mine water. Other processes lose gold of that fineness. Take a little conglomeration of these minute particles and break up the little mass. It is resplendent with all colors of the rainbow. There are tens of millions of atoms in the little body.

"The divisibility of matter is beyond calculation, as is its perpetual transition beyond human ken. We have liquid gold, oil of gold and flower gold. We catch them all. When put into the furnace these fine particles escape. If the wet treatment is not just right they pass away in the adherent slimes.

"Gold grows. Old miners in Bowdoin county call it vegetable gold. Gold develops until it reaches the perfect stage in the yellow metal. We accomplish artificially in twenty-four hours what might require a million years in the natural process. Different characters of ore require different methods of treatment. They call for the application of different quantities of the chemical compound. Iron, sulphate, copper, silver and lead are determents, and the quantity of liquid must be increased when these mineral elements are present.

"If I were a fakler I would want money. I am asking nobody for money. I have not sought notoriety, and would prefer it if my name were left out of the newspapers. The process is not the result of scientific investigation of chemistry or metallurgy, but of a careful, common sense study of the effect of liquids upon ores, and finally the truth was revealed by accident."

The Oldest Methodist in North Georgia.

We find the following communication written by Dr. Howard, of Dahlonega, in a recent issue of the Wesleyan Christian Advocate:

On yesterday I was able to go up near Porter Springs, north of this place to have a talk with Mrs. Elizabeth Cain, the oldest Methodist, and perhaps the oldest woman in Lumpkin County. She was born the 28th of July, 1801, near Greenville, South Carolina, therefore she was one hundred years old, the past July. Her father was a Mr. Daniels, and her mother's name was Self. She said that her mother was from Virginia, but she did not remember where her father came from, "till I remarked that the Daniels lived about Richmond, Virginia, and she quickly replied: "That is the place he came from." Mrs. Cain said that when she was two or three years old her parents moved to Buncombe county, N. C., twenty miles south of Asheville, near the junction of the Mills and the French Broad rivers. This place is now in Henderson county.

At this place I will state the incident and circumstances of her uniting with the church. Her parents were poor and the children, both boys and girls, aided in cultivating the corn crop, and in out door work generally. When Elizabeth was thirteen years old, and preaching near by, on a week day by a Methodist preacher named, Allen Turner, she asked her mother for permission to go to church, who said, "No, you will have to hill corn to-day." Then the girl cried, when her father knew the trouble, he said, "Ah, let her go along to meeting, and when she comes back she will gain the time she has lost." That day, she joined the church, for the good Spirit moved her to do so. Her parents did not know this for three or four days, and then inquired after the fact, if she had joined the church, and why she did so. She answered, "I wanted to be a better girl and do right." Her parents were satisfied with her answer. She said to me, "I have lived in the Methodist Church every since—some eighty-seven years.

I have known this good mother in Israel for many years, and her life and walk have been a pattern for all lovers of the right way, and she now rejoices in hope of that better day. She is yet able to walk about the house and take care of herself. Her sight is pretty good, so much so, that she can use a sewing needle, etc.

When Miss Elizabeth Daniels grew up she married Benjamin Cain, and soon after this moved to Georgia. Her life has been principally spent in Union and Lumpkin counties. She was the oldest of a large family of children, most of whom have passed away, yet she lives to suffer the will of Providence, willing to stay and ready to go.

Eighty-five persons were killed in a railroad wreck near Seneca, Mich., one night last week caused by a misunderstanding.

THE NUGGET.

DAHLONEGA, DEC. 6, 1901.

Entered at the Postoffice at Dahlonega, Ga., P. O. as Second Class Matter.

There are 28,000 words in the presidents message.

The Superior Court of Chatham county granted 22 divorces Tuesday.

It is stated that Hon. James M. Smith, the Oglethorpe county farmer, is going to be candidate for governor.

Hon. Henry G. Turner has announced that he will not enter the race for governor next year on account of his bad health.

Several manufacturing concerns in Savannah have decided to use Beaumont oil provided it can be laid down cheap enough.

Thanksgiving Day last week was observed in various ways. Some hunted, some played ball while many drank liquor and a few prayed.

Gov. Candler sent a message to both houses the other day urging the passage of the Blalock resolution. Appropriations may be vetoed if situations is not remedied.

It is rumored that Gov. Candler will resign and make the race against Carter Tate for Congress. The Governor had better keep his seat. A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush.

The negro Bailly Elrod, who stole Newt Miller's mule in White county on the night of the 30th ult., was captured in Towns county and is now behind the bars in the county where he stole the animal.

Last Friday Messenger Penn was instructed by the speaker to go out in the city and arrest members of the legislature and bring them in so a quorum could be had for the transaction of business.

C. R. Clemons, died last week at the Glades mine in Hall county. He has been in charge of the Glades property for some time. It consists of 60,000 acres of the best land in Hall county, besides several gold mines.

While Representative Bruce was up last week several of his warmest friends tried to get him to promise that he would be a candidate again, but he declined to say for certain, but left the impression that he would serve again if it was the wish of the people at the primary.

It is stated that James Richardson, who married last summer has four other living wives. Kind married readers, how would you like to have five mother-in-laws? It may be that this man is in search of a good natured mother-in-law. If he is he has a hard undertaking.

There is a great surprise in store for the politicians next year in the race for Governor. If Col. J. H. Estill can have a late primary, so the people can come out and vote, if he don't land in the executive mansion his friends are badly deceived. All they ask is a clean and fair fight, and they are not doubtful of this, or the result. He has managed his own business well and think he is capable of tending to the peoples. Dawsonville Advertiser.

A staff correspondent, writing in the Augusta Chronicle, says, in speaking of the gubernatorial race: "The race is clearly between Hon. Dupont Gerry and Hon. Joseph M. Terrell; two men totally unlike in their make-up and tactics." A great many people think the same thing, but there is no questioning the fact that Col. J. H. Estill is going to wake somebody up with his strength long before the primary takes place. The efforts being made in his behalf will certainly accomplish something. Besides his great following in South Georgia, he has many personal and political friends in North Georgia, who will put their shoulders to the wheel at the proper time. Estill is bound to be an important factor in the race. Banks County Journal.

Mining Notes.

Prospecting work still continues at the Jumbo mine and is showing up well.

Development work has commenced at the Cora Lee mine four miles from Dahlonega.

If a new mill was put in at the Betz mine they would make big money, otherwise they won't.

We understand that a shaft of two will soon be started at the copper mine in this county over on the Chatstate river.

The company which lately purchased the Briar Patch property has recently organized and elected Judge Shope of Chicago as president.

Development work is in progress at the mica mine in the upper part of this county on Samuel Waters' property, and the mica is said to be fine.

Jeff D. Wheelchel, we learn, has closed a trade with some capitalists for his fine farm and placer mine on Etowah river.—Dawsonville Advertiser.

The attention of those having assays to be made is called to the ad. of The Colorado Assaying and Refining Company, Denver, Col., to be found in this issue.

Elsewhere will be found a report of the Wynn gold saving process. If all reports are true it is a wonderful invention, a process which it is claimed saves all the gold.

The richness of the Grace mine (lot 810) is attracting the attention of some Boston capitalists and it may be that some of them will become interested here at an early date.

Dock Erwin and Charlie McAffee are prospecting on the Jones property and hope to be able to strike the schute from which several thousand pennyweights were taken some years ago.

As heretofore stated the Lumpkin mine is showing up splendid. Good veins have been discovered on south side of the creek with an exposure of five or six hundred feet. Four men in six days made seventy-seven pennyweights at an expense of not quite $25.

Hands are now engaged in making roads to the Gorge on the Chatstate river some distance above Bearden's bridge at which place a dam is going to be built by J. F. Moore and others to furnish power for mining and other purposes, which will be commenced right away. A saw mill will be constructed conveniently where there is plenty of splendid timber.

If the present owners can't make money at the Singleton mine they have an opportunity of leasing it to certain natives here who can and would be glad to do so. Same can be said of the Findley and Barlow, if they had small stamp mills. These mines being in the hands of men who won't work themselves nor let no one else do it benefits no one and injures the country.

Blue Ridge World: C. C. Baugh, of Mineral Bluff, this county, who together with T. J. Coen, of Chicago, Ill., has recently sold about $5,000 acres of timbered lands, in East Tennessee, left last Monday for Knoxville and Maryville, Tenn., on business. Mr. Baugh also has control of the Garret gold mine in this county, and informs us that a stock company is soon to be formed to work this mine.

The other day while passing across the public square our curiosity was excited by seeing Mr. Catchings approaching us with something heavy in a shot bag and by enquiring what it meant, were shown another big clean up of gold from the Crown Mountain. It is useless for us to state that they are making money at this mine. Two or three days later we, in company with other citizens, had the pleasure of seeing a nice lot of gold taken from Crown Mountain mine after it was burnt off. There were two parcels of it just as it was taken from the crucible weighing more than three thousand pennyweights. This is certainly encouraging not only to its owners but to all of our citizens.

zons and even to the laboring miner who digs it out for he knows that he has a permanent job that will last for many years to come.

New Officers.

The following is a list of the officers of Blue Mountain Lodge No. 38 P. & A. M., December 3rd, 1901:

B. P. Gallard, W. M.
B. C. Ansted, S. W.
W. P. Price, Jr., Warden.
E. W. Strickland, Treas.
W. H. McAfce, Sec.
W. J. Worley, Chap.
R. H. Baker, S. D.
W. H. Jones, J. D.
John H. Moore, S. S.
J. M. Brooksher, J. S.
H. C. Wheelchel and H. D. Gurley, Property Trustees.
J. V. Harrison, Tyler.

It is claimed by an expert that hogs have small pox in the stock yards in east Buffalo, N. Y.

Where did Booker Washington, col. eat dinner? Did President Roosevelt send him a turkey?

It is said that Joe Terrell and Dupont Gurry favor the dispensary bill. This will be a death blow to them among most of the temperance people.

President Roosevelt has removed W. M. Jenkins, governor of Oklahoma and appointed Thomas B. Ferguson because of his improper connection with a contract between territory and the Oklahoma Sanitary company.

We notice that Col. Joe Terrell is soon to resign the office of attorney general and enter actively into the race for governor. When men decide to be servants of the people we think that it is best for them to hold fast to what they have until their terms expire and then place their wishes before the voters.

Judge Emory Speer has decided that the sanitarian act of Georgia is wrong, and in a recent decision says, "yet this act of the general assembly which empowers any man for good reasons without due process of law to keep a citizen in confinement for a period wholly arbitrary must be declared null and the applicant must be discharged."

A western Kansas editor published this notice the other day for the guidance of delinquent subscribers: "If you have frequent headaches, dizziness, fainting spells, accompanied chills, cramps, corns, bunions, emphysema and jaundice, it is a sign you are not well, but are liable to die any minute. Pay your subscription a year in advance, and thus make yourself solid for a good obituary notice."

A. C. Chalker, a prominent farmer of the Usey Mill district in Glascock county, has entered suit against W. A. English, a well-to-do young farmer of Gibson, for $10,000. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant was received into his house as a suitor for the hand of his daughter, and thereby accomplished her ruin, and that the disgrace and dishonor brought upon the family thereby should be appeared in the sum named. English denies the soft impeachment and says the charge was laid at his door because it was known that he was possessed of some property.

G. G. Hyatt, attorney for the Ducktown, Sulphur Iron & Copper Co., recently stated in an interview published in the Knoxville Sentinel that his company is making an experiment which, if it succeeds, will largely abate the smoke nuisance at Ducktown and cheapen the production of copper very materially. The roasting yards are to be done away with and the new plant is to put the ore directly into the blast furnace where the intense heat burns up the smoke. This will be good news for all that are troubled with the smoke. It is believed that it is injuring the fruit trees just beyond the Blue Ridge, and has made its appearance on this side of the mountain and it is hoped that it can be stopped before it does any more damage.

"The South Carolina and Interstate and West Indian Exposition will be held in the city of Charleston from December 1st, 1901, to June 1st, 1902. There is no place on this continent where the climatic conditions are so favorable for a Mid Winter Exposition."

Out of door life in Charleston during the winter season is a perpetual life.

Flowers bloom in the open gardens throughout the year, and a bowl of roses on the Christmas dinner table is not an unusual sight.

City Election.

In accordance with the usual custom I hereby call a public meeting of the citizens and voters of Dahlonega to be held at the court house on Monday night, the 16th of December, at 7 o'clock, for the purpose of nominating a ticket for mayor and three aldermen, one for each ward. Only registered voters should participate in the proceedings of this meeting.

HOME AND CHILD

Does your horse "feel his oats"? What a difference between the grain-fed and the grass-fed horse! The first strong and full of ginger, the second flabby, weak and tired out before he begins. The feeding makes the difference. Children are not alike either. One is rosy, bright-eyed, full of life and laughter, another is pale, weak and dull. The feeding again is responsible.

Sickly children need special feeding. They don't feel their oats. Scott's Emulsion adds just the right richness to their diet. It is like grain to the horse. The child gets new appetite and strong digestion. Scott's Emulsion is more than food. It is a strong medicine. It rouses up dull children, puts new flesh on thin bones and red blood into pale faces. It makes children grow. Scott's Emulsion makes ordinary food do its duty.

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion and is on the wrapper of every bottle. Send for free sample.

Asthma Cure Free!

Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in All Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL. WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY.

There is nothing like Asthmalene! It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails. The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was always a slave, chained with pained sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had over-spoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full size bottle!"

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler, Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel, New York, Jan. 3, 1901. Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful. After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours, REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write this testimony from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 120th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully, O. D. FIELDS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO. Gentlemen: I was troubled with asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have now purchased your full size bottle, and I am very grateful. I have family of four children and for six years was unable to work. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. Home address, 235 Rivington St. S. RAFAEL, 97 East 120th St., City.

TRIAL BOTTLE ABSOLUTELY SENT FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL.

Do not delay. Write at once, addressing DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO., 79 East 100th Street, N. Y. City.

W. W. Murray and J. B. Clements vs. D. H. B. Hooper. Partition of realty in Lumpkin Superior Court October 1901. Georgia, Lumpkin County. To D. H. B. Hooper: You are hereby notified that the above named plaintiffs have applied to the Superior Court of said county for partition of lot of land numbered 141 in the Eleventh District of Lumpkin County, Georgia, and that said application will be heard by the judge of said Court at Chambers at Dawsonville, Georgia, on Tuesday, February 11th, 1902, at which time and place you are commanded to be and appear to show cause why partition should not be granted as prayed for. Witness the honorable J. B. Estes, judge of said Court. This November 18th, 1901. J. H. Moore, Clerk.

We regret to learn that the mother of cadet F. A. Griffin, of Monroe, N. C. died last week.

Mrs. Chambers and Mrs. Ham, of Gainesville, were among the visitors to Dahlonega this week.

Mrs. Dr. Price, of Stevensville, Montana, is on a visit to her sister Mrs. O. J. Lilly, at this place, where she will spend several weeks for her health.

Just received the best and largest assortment of stationery we have ever had. Come to see us and have your job work done right at home.

Deputy Collector Richardson said the other day that he found a box of potash at nearly every illicit distillery he visited. This is what makes the liquor so hot and mean.

Mr. Moore informs us that there are about 125 hands at work on and about the dam on the Chestatee river for the Railway Co. Crof. Moore has gone down and taken charge of a force of them.

The little eight months old child of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ash died here on Sunday morning, and its remains were carried to Union county for burial. Its parents are students of the N. G. A. College.

For nice Christmas goods go to H. D. Gurleys. If the price, quality and quantity is any inducement, Gurleys is the place to go. When you see them you will be convinced that nobody else is in it, says Mr. Gurley.

At one illicit distillery visited by the revenue officers last week they found six men, two of whom made their escape. The ones arrested were Jim Grizzle, Welborn Grizzle, Roe Puckle and Sam Anderson. Marshal Grizzle and Collector Richardson were very much pleased with this raid.

Ben Adams has been sent to the reformatory, leaving but one prisoner in jail now—Mrs. Lee—who was imprisoned by order of the judge until the cost in a case she prosecuted was paid on account of it being returned by the jury as malicious. But she is not able to pay a dollar even and her confinement is only adding more expense to the county.

The good roads convention of the state will convene in Atlanta Dec. 11th and continue in session four days. The delegates to represent Lumpkin county are H. D. Gurley, M. G. Head, Dahlonega; J. T. Miller, Auraria. Every county in the state will be represented it is hoped. The delegates for each county have been appointed but whether they will all attend cannot be told until the time comes.

"Turkey" Bill Postell informed us last Monday that he and his wife had decided to dissolve copartnership that morning. Notwithstanding Mr. Postell is 67 years of age he tells us that he is going to apply for a divorce and hunt a woman for a wife that will suit him better. If there is any lady who desires a husband of this age let her send in her application to this old man and be ready when he gets his divorce.

A meeting at J. L. Jarrards in White county last week, by the citizens of that county and Lumpkin, to discuss the question of asking that the quarantine line be moved down into this county, was attended by about 150 persons. The proposition was to have it run this way as far as the Garnet mine and Dock Anderson creek but only two citizens of Lumpkin voted for it. We don't want this line any nearer us than the Blue Ridge and really it is not desired there. It is a great disadvantage to poor people who have nothing but steers to market their produce, for when they cross the line with their "horned horses" they can't return with them.

Is your house insured? If not, why not?

Call Strickland left last Sunday for Swainsboro, where he goes to accept a position in a store.

(Morning after the fire) "My, how glad I am I took out that policy." Without it I would be a ruined man to-day."

Go to T. J. Smiths and examine his goods and prices. You will find them the best goods and lowest prices in town.

Remember that if you desire to vote in the city election you will have to register. Books will not be open much longer.

Representative Bruce spent two or three days at home last week. There are 36 many local bills before the legislature that the sessions are not of much interest to the public.

Mr. Southard, of Forsyth county, has moved to Dahlonega. He arrived last Friday with his saw mill and engine and located a few miles above Dahlonega where there is plenty of fine timber.

If you wish the town to thrive and prosper select a mayor and aldermen always that are not too selfish to see the wants of others as well as themselves and who will conduct the public finances same as if the money was theirs individually.

Some days the fine at the Baptist church got so it wouldn't draw at all. Thinking that some brick had got misplaced they made an examination and found it to be a large amount of straw and stuff the English sparrows had carried in during the summer for nests.

Leave your sample ore at the "Villa" or mail them to me at Dahlonega to be assayed. Don't be too economical to give up a dollar or so for an assay, colors are deceptive, assays never lie. All work guaranteed, quick returns. WHARTON ANDERSON, Assayer.

As stated in a previous issue of the Nugget the council voted to recind its action in opening out a street through the old Tan Yard lot belonging to Capt. Ingersoll, who is at present a member of the council. Mayor Price vetoed it and on last Monday night the body by a majority vote passed it over his veto and this street will continue to be closed, as it should, for there are more streets now than can be kept up properly.

Both the names of Col. Baker and Col. Lilly have been spoken of in connection with the mayorship of Dahlonega next year. Col. Lilly is one of the present aldermen and won't agree to accept it. While Col. Baker says if it is the wish of the people he will accept and serve them to the best of his ability, and further authorizes us to state that if the office of U. S. Commissioner interferes (which doesn't) that he will resign as commissioner.

All of our citizens were surprised to hear of the wedding of Mr. A. C. Whitehead and Miss Cora Wheelchel, two students of the N. G. A. College, Thursday of last week. They went off in the morning in a buggy toward the young ladies home in Hall county and the next day the news was received that they had been married by H. H. Stephens, Esq. They are both still in college and will graduate in June.

A member of the city council informed us that one of its body wanted to post the notice of the opening and closing of the registration book up at the court house or on a tree, which cost only 75 cents to have it published in the newspapers where every body could see it. We don't know who it is but are very sorry that Dahlonega has such a narrow minded member for councilman to help engineer its finances. Every where else except Dahlonega the people are made familiar each month with the management of the finances. Let a member like this resign for one like him is too stingy to even give a nickel to get to heaven if he was assured of success in reaching there.

Lost.—A medal with N. G. A. C. on it, finder will please return it to Little Irene Moore.

Appropriate Thanksgiving services were held here but the attendance was not very large.

A party of young ladies were out serenading the other night. Of course the music was sweet and lovely.

Rev. Mr. Pierce, the new Methodist preacher, will deliver his first sermon at this place next Sunday, so we understand.

R. C. Thomson's pretty little pony, which was such a favorite among all the children, died last week very suddenly.

Some of our business men have very sorry cheap locks on their doors which nearly any key will fit. Better change them before some thief makes a raid and relieves you of a lot of goods.

The negroes have had no 'possum suppers since court. They have to pay the city authorities from six to nine dollars each for this kind of enjoyment and passing off the time usually.

The state inspector of fruit trees was up a few days ago to examine the nursery of Fitts & Brooksher and found them all right. There are 80 nurseries in Georgia now that have to be visited by this official.

Friends of the city and to the following persons request us to announce their names as suitable persons to serve on the next council: For Mayor: Col. R. H. Baker. For Aldermen: Prof. B. P. Gaillard, W. P. Price, Jr., and R. C. Meaders.

Some people acknowledge that a good paper is a benefit to any town or section, but still they don't wish to invest a few dollars to help it along in the way of advertising. They want the editor to do all the work and receive nothing for his services except praise. Such as this fails to put any meal in his tub.

It will be seen by a notice elsewhere that a convention has been called to convene at the court house on the night of the 16th inst., for the purpose of nominating a mayor and three councilmen to serve in the places of those whose term expire on the first of January. Let everybody come out and use their utmost endeavors to select good competent men to fill these positions.

Last Friday when Mr. Southard was making his way to Dahlonega with his 14,000 pound engine it looked for a while like the Cane Creek bridge would go down under the heavy strain. But it succeeded in pulling through all right bringing with it 7,700 pounds of saw mill machinery. The bridge is made of wood which has been built for several years but this proves that it is a good one.

Last week while Lewis Prewitt was in Ducktown his wife sold a lot of things and left out at night for Texas, it is supposed, carrying her children and leaving her husbands first wife to take care of themselves the best they could. Rumor has it that Luther Walker and Mrs. Prewitt were on very "friendly terms" and it is said that the sheriff was called on to detain him to keep him from leaving and going with her. Mr. Prewitt was notified and he returned home at once.

We dropped in to see our friend R. W. Walker last Sunday afternoon, who is keeping bachelors hall out at the Lumpkin mine, and apparently enjoying life as well as if he had a sweet pretty wife to keep him company. Every thing was clean and neatly arranged, but Mr. Walker is too clever a man to live all alone. He would make some lady a good husband and ought to marry. It would be more joy than he can now realize to have a good wife to rub his forehead and give him tea when he is taking cold and his head aches with pain. Try it, and if you are dissatisfied there will be no trouble for you to get a divorce under the present law.

Bear in mind that Tate, Littlefield & Co. have a lot of goods to supply the demand of all wanting big bargains.

Call on Dr. Groves and have your decayed teeth either filled or extracted so you can enjoy eating sweet things Christmas.

Even if you are not convenient to E. E. Crissons store he will make it to your interest to call on him. Don't forget this.

Just as soon as the railroad obtains the right of ways through the Consolidated Co's property work will be commenced on this end of the road.

Over on the river one day last week Mart Anderson found four cattle snakes pilots which had come out of their den to sun, and he succeeded in killing three of them.

Collector Richardson was in Dahlonega last week and paid a visit to a blockade distillery in Dawson county but the operator had run out before he and Marshal Grizzle arrived and he returned disappointed for the first time. Mr. Richardson presented us with part of a still worm which he found in this county on a former trip. This we keep as a curiosity to strangers residing in a country where there is no moonshining.

We notice that certain parents in Dahlonega allow their children to go out on the public square at night and remain as long as they see proper. If some of our citizens knew what their children are doing and how they are acting surely they would cause a change. Some of these days if they don't stop it, they will be brought to grief. Mark our predictions. Children can learn enough mischief during the day to make them troublesome enough.

Those wanting to pay their subscription to the NUGGET, or any part of it in wood, will please leave off the big seven foot sticks in a load hereafter claiming to be a half cord. If not, sell it to some body else and pay us the money, or if you are not willing to do this you needn't take the paper at all. We endeavor to do our part by giving you a paper worth one dollar and if you don't think we are doing it stop taking it.

While Robert Payne was in Dahlonega last Saturday, who resides in Davis' district, it was reported to the mayor that some of his family had small pox and have had for three weeks. Mr. Payne was notified by the marshal that he must go and remain out of Dahlonega until all danger was over. It must be very light as we have heard of no physician being called in, but it is well enough to be cautious about any contagious disease, matters not how light it may be.

A pension check was received at the Dahlonega postoffice for Bill Dotson last week for $300, being the amount past due and from now on he will receive $12 per month. But Bill was not here to receive it. Only a few days ago he was sent to the chain gang from this county for a term of six months for misdemeanor, being unable to raise the money and having no friends that felt disposed to do it for him. Dotson used to draw a pension but for some reason it was discontinued and the old man went needy until he got into court trouble. Now since the money has come he will have friends who will try to get him liberated.

The two colored brothers who rode out into the country last Friday after a load of liquor, seated in a buggy drawn by a gray horse, had bad luck as they returned that night, by running up on a bank and dropping and breaking the largest jar. It was certainly a big disappointment to the many customers in waiting, for they only arrived with one gallon. However this little amount was sufficient to cause some of them to be right noisy during the rest of the night. City Marshal Harrison was also disappointed, by going out and making a search but found nothing except a few jugs containing only the scent of liquor.

Go to J. F. Moores and examine those cheap good guns of all kinds.

It was J. H. Chatter's steer described in last weeks Nugget being lost instead of J. H. Chapman. Have you seen it?

A gentleman who recently visited Union county says Wm. Harbin has seventeen living children. We don't suppose that Mr. Harbin ever gets lonesome.

Parties from Dahlonega who were in Gainesville last Monday night said that they had a heavy hail. It is an unusual occurrence at this season for hail, but it came all the same.

Mayor Price had two cases to dispose of last Monday—Charlie Hunter and Jess McDonald, both of whom were fined one dollar and cost each for taking on two much moonshine liquor Saturday night.

What's the reason the Signal don't take out that big Union Store ad, which was up the 21st of September? This big dead ad. is not of much interest now since the company has reduced the store to a one-horse concern.

The stereotype that has been running in the Signal for some time stating that John Siebert, of Columbus, O. has been taking that paper didn't appear last week. What's the trouble? Is Mr. Siebert dead or has he discontinued taking the Signal?

You will find it to your interest to visit the store of J. D. Ricketts as he proposes to give the best bargains of any merchant in town until Christmas. A full line of temperance drinks always on hand. Oranges two cents each and other goods very cheap.

The assembling of the "quartet" at a certain house in Dahlonega last Friday night was a very happy gathering. The way the women sung love songs and chatted with their lovers will long be remembered by each other, which no doubt caused the devil to blush with shame.

On Thanksgiving Day the poor of Dahlonega were kindly remembered by each pupil of the public school, whose parents felt so inclined by carrying to the school house for distribution among them something nice for their Thanksgiving dinner. Such acts as this not only pleases those receiving the presents but is never forgotten by the great Creator in the general wind up of the donors earthly business.

Rev. Wallace Rogers, the past pastor of the Methodist church, left this week for his new appointment at Norcross, Ga. We had hoped that he would be sent back to Dahlonega, for he is a good man and an able preacher. He is not such a great revivalist but if his hearers will take his advice none of them will miss reaching heaven and what more do we need? And another thing, religion gotten by a person at a quiet time stays with them longer.

Here is something of interest to every careful buyer. We cater to your wishes—we have what you need, in one of the best selected stock of groceries in Dahlonega, both staple and fancy. Our prices are low as the lowest, and we are in better shape than ever this season to serve you. Goods coming in fresh every week. Just in and absolutely fresh goods: Grits, Oatmeal, Crackers, Cheese, White Fish, Mackerel, Mince Meat, Gelatine, Figs, Raisens, Prunes, Cocoanuts, Oranges, Heinz's canned goods and others. Table condiments, such as Mustard Dressings, India Relish, Catsups, Pickles, Olives, Worcester Sauce, &c., &c. Also the best in extracts, Baker's Chocolate, Shredded Cocoanut, &c. Will have for the Xmas Holidays one of the nicest lines of confectioneries to be seen in the city. Goods will arrive next week and will be new and fresh. Our prices for the holiday trade greatly reduced, and on any thing we have in Stationery, Dry Goods, Notions or Shoes, will save you from 10 to 25 per cent. Try us and be convinced. E. S. COFFLAND.

We have had some rain this week which will give the miners a better chance now as some of them have been unable to run on full time for a long time.

Marshal Grizzle went down to Dawson county this week and found Bob Bryson operating an illicit distillery. He was brought to town and bound over.

It was reported that Sam Small would lecture here at the college last Tuesday night, but he failed to come. Dahlonega is too small a place for Mr. Small to visit.

Country produce is high in Dahlonega. So is blockade liquor. The latter sold in the city last Monday at $1.00 a quart, and went even at this costly price like hot cakes.

Joe Smith and W. J. Burt, after exchanging the word lie down at Auraria last Tuesday hitched. No damage done except a few broken pieces of flesh which will soo get well.

At a meeting of the city council last Wednesday the Dahlonega and Gainesville Electric Railway Co. was granted permission to run its street car up Park Street to the public square and on up Market Street, up the Mahew road and through Clarkesville and College Streets.

Nelius Goodluck, col., one of the parties who was fined recently for misbehaving at a 'possum supper at the Methodist church, upon refusing to either pay the fine or work it out on the streets, was cooped by the Marshal last Tuesday and put to work the next day.

Several lots of land changed hands last Tuesday at public sale. M. R. Moore's property was bid off by G. McGuire for $140.00; the turner farm was bought by Tilmon Davis and W. J. Worley for $105.50, and the Jas. W. Head property was bid off by W. S. Huff at $10. Objections were filed against the sale of the Crane town property. It would doubtless have brought a good price as we noticed several of our citizens ready to bid.

We have the finest line of Christmas presents and the greatest variety of toys ever shown in Dahlonega and our prices are like the prices on meat and flour "close." We think we are going to have enough to go round this time but our sales increase so rapidly that you had better come early and avoid the rush that always occurs for our cheap priced goods the last few days before the 25th. They are now opened up and being selected rapidly. Remember we expect you to take the things put up for you and we can't take back unused stuff.

B. R. MEADERS & SONS. One day last week Prof. Martin, of the public school, whipped one or two of the boys. In a night or two afterwards he was rocked, one stone striking him, while on his way to his room. Feeling pretty confident that he knew the parties, the Professor went to work and soon had the rock throwers spotted, which caused several of the pupils to return to their homes for different reasons. But it was not long until their parents had them marching back and things are moving along all right now. One young lady, who was caught grinning at the teacher, was told to go home until she could learn to act differently.

Not Yet Worn Out.

De. H. H. Hightower of Dublin, Ga., has according to a dispatch from that town, demonstrated that the farming can be made to pay handsomely. Not many years ago he bought a piece of land near Dublin which was supposed to be worn out. His estimate is, that this year his gross returns from acres of this worn-out, sandy land will be $2500. He has already saved seventy bales of hay, has shredded 750 bushels of corn, with 150 bushels more to be gathered in the old way, has marketed 250 bushels of potatoes from one acre, with three acres yet to be gathered 100 bushels of peas, will pick between twelve and fifteen bales of cotton, and expects, after making 1000 gallons of syrup, to save enough seed cane to plant eight acres next year.

The Farmer and His Oxen.

An old farmer in Arkansas has four oxen which he uses for farm purposes, and named them Presbyterians, Baptists, Episcopalians and Methodists, respectively. When asked why he gave them such queer names, he replied, "I call this ox Presbyterian because he is true blue and never fails to pull through difficulties and holds out to the end; besides he knows more than the rest. I call this ox Baptist because he is always after water, and seems though he'd never get enough; then again he won't eat with the others. I call this ox, Episcopalian because he has a mighty way of holding his head up, and if his yoke gets a little too tight he tries to kick and crawl clear out of the track. I call this ox Methodist because he puffs and blows and he goes along, and you'd think he was pulling all creation, but he doesn't pull a pound unless you continually stir him up."

A Great Invention.

An Atchison woman has a habit of eating too much, and she invented a method of knowing when she had enough, and will have her discovery patented. An ingenious little alarm bell is set in her corset, and when the pressure of the corset from eating amounts to so many pounds to the square inch the alarm is set off and the woman must quit. Sometimes she is in the midst of a juicy steak, or she may be just be tasting a delicious dish of ice cream, or she may have just reached her coffee, when the pressure sets the alarm off, but she then quits. When visitors are at the house the alarm startles them a little at first, but they soon get used to the going. The inventor says the alarm has been of more benefit to her than a score of doctors.—Ex.

A new process for extracting gold from ores has been announced in Denver. It has the sanction of the brother of Senator Teller who is an expert on such matters. By the new process it is claimed a much higher percentage of the precious metal can be secured than by old process. By its use low grade rocks can be worked to advantage. It is to be hoped the claim of the discoverer is well grounded. There are millions of tons of low grade gold-bearing rock in Georgia and the Carolinas that would be worked under a new and more economical process.—Marietta Journal.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted at a meeting of the Ga. Federation of Women's Club at Athens, Nov. 8th, explains itself: "Resolved, That the members of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, in convention assembled, do hereby request the newspapers of our State to take all possible measures to lessen the evils of the headlines, and illustrated advertisements, as well as all unnecessary exploiting of our women, and that copies of this resolution be sent to all the prominent journals."

Be Courteous.

Not long ago I attended church service in a city not far distant. I was a stranger to most of those present, but I shall not soon forget a young boy who sat near me. When the hymn was given out, he found it each time, and gracefully handed me the book. He was not tall enough to share it with me, so he gave it wholly for my use. As I took the book I could but think, here is a boy who is courteous; he has been well trained by a careful mother—who has taught him to be kind to strangers. His earnest face has very often been in my thoughts since then, and my prayer is, "God bless him;" and as he grows in years, may he not forget to remember others, and seek to make them happy.

When a young girl, I was standing one afternoon with a group of young friends at the fork of a road, when a stranger rode up, and being undecided which road to take, asked the way. One girl gave him a pert answer, which would have misled him, had followed her direction. A quiet, plain-looking girl then stepped out from the group and answered his question. With a smile he thanked her and said: "You reflect credit upon your mother and on your home training," as he turned and rode away. This incident made a deep impression on my mind, and led me on to ask myself whether my conduct to others was such as to bring honor or dishonor to my own dear mother; would people judge of my home training by my manners abroad?

Have you ever thought of this? If you are rude and boisterous on the streets, will it be said: "She has been brought in a refined home that boy has been gently trained?" Sometimes young people do not follow their good teachings; they get into bad company, and say and do things they would be ashamed to let their parents know. Mother is not to blame for their rudeness; but some will misjudge her, and she will have to bear the blame of their ill behavior. Remember this, my dear young friends, when tempted to be pert or rude.—M. C. DuBois.

In Wilmington, Del., there is a baby aged twenty-one months that amazes himself by reading the daily newspapers. The kid is the child of Prof. Wisely of Bridgeville Academy. Had such precocity manifested itself in Boston nobody would have thought anything about it, but occurring in a Delaware town the people are quite sure the youngster will live to shine as police court reporter.—Marietta Journal.

McKee of Dawsonville, went to Atlanta last Friday and closed a land deal with the South Georgia Cattle Co., whereby Mr. McKee sold the company 111,000 acres of timber land, for which the company paid $80,000. This is a Delaware corporation and proposes to make some large investments in this state.—Eagle.

ANNUAL REPORT

Of the President of the Dahlonega Temperance Union For 1901.

The following was read by Prof. Wilber Colvin, President of the Dahlonega Temperance Union, at the annual meeting, Dec. 1, 1901, at the Presbyterian church:

This is the time for the annual meeting of the Temperance Union and for the annual election of officers, the same to assume their duties at the next regular meeting. And as president of the Union, I present this as my annual report.

This year completes the eleventh year of the Union. That it has done much to educate along the lines of temperance sentiment, there can be no doubt. That it might have done more is equally true. That there is much that it, or some such organization, ought to do, or that needs to be done along these lines is certainly apparent to every thinking person.

During the current year, the Union has met regularly once each month; and at each meeting a good program was rendered, and the people have shown their interest by large attendance at every meeting. And at each meeting a number of persons have given their pledge to total abstinence from the use of intoxicating beverages.

It argues well for the harmony, good-will, and right spirit that prevails among our people that they have for so long time and so regularly come together in these union services in opposition to the liquor business, and in promotion of a healthy and strong public spirit along this line. It is not every community that presents this united front to this arch enemy of the social, moral, and religious interests of every person in the community.

But Satan and his emissaries never sleep,—never rest. And if he has any emissaries any more vigilant than any others, certainly the dispensers of strong drink and their allies and abettors are the most alert. And it certainly behooves those who stand for sobriety, and purity, and the right to be as united and active and earnest as possible.

This is a day of specialization and concentration; and no one understands this power better than the prince of darkness himself. He is in adept at specialization, and it seems that he is now giving unusual attention to the liquor business as one of the most efficient agencies for the corruption and destruction of man, body and soul, and those who are striving to oppose evil must specialize largely if they would win,—concentrate their fire, as the soldiers would say, upon certain strategic strongholds. Even a hunter does not fire on the whole flock of birds. He singles them out on the wing. And soldiers pick their aim; and even great war ships concentrate their fire upon the most strategic points, whether on fort or certain parts of an adversary's boat.

And the gospel guns must from time to time be trained,—shot and fired, and continually served upon definite strongholds of the great enemy of the works of the gospel, if Christianity would win, or even hold its own. The great adversary is constantly using the specialization tactics and is surely profiting thereby.

Locally there is need of vigilance and united work. As a community we have responsibilities ties along this line much greater than the average, as we have most of each year with us scores of young people at the very time of life when they are most vulnerable to the assaults of the rum fiend; and that he is assaulting them,—yes, that he is securing some victims is plain to every one who will see.

And we as a people are in a large measure responsible. That I am my brother's keeper, was one of the first principles that God himself established in His dealings with man; and the same principle has been reaffirmed times beyond number.

The sale and use of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes is the most fruitful source of crime, poverty, shame, misery and sin in any community. We all know it. We all know it. It always curses and never blesses. We all know it. It is opposed to every work of the school, the church, and the Christian home. We all know it. And we must stand together against its ravages. We ought to unite and go forward and drive it completely out of existence, as we would do any other similarly destructive agency.

And recent events have cast even greater responsibilities upon us. Shall we sit quietly and let the liquor power thread our State and may be our community with dispensaries?—which are simply great saloons conducted by the public. I resent with all my energy being made a saloon keeper. Don't you?

If Lumpkin county runs a saloon, and you are a part of the county and participate in the profits of that saloon, even though you call it a dispensary, can you avoid the odium of being a saloon-keeper? And how will you avoid the inexorable curse of God himself? "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that putteth thy bottle to him, and maketh him drunken also." And you who imagine that the liquor business may be made a source of public revenue, listen: "Woe to him that buildeth a town with blood, and stablisheth a city by iniquity." When the Almighty says "Woe," you had better stop, short.

If the profits of the sale of intoxicating liquor do not represent blood,—heart's blood of men, women and children, and iniquity of all manner and degrees,—what does?

I object to making a public monopoly of this business. If it is a legitimate business, give every one an equal chance at it. But if it is an iniquitous business, I strenuously object to giving it life, protection and standing by public operation and maintenance.

The Methodist Episcopal church has declared through the address of its board of bishops to the general conference, speaking of the liquor business: "It cannot be legalized without sin." And no man has ever undertaken to contradict that proposition.

And the Supreme Court of the United States, the highest legal authority of the nation has declared with equal emphasis:

"No legislature can bargain away the public health or the public morals. The people themselves can not do it, much less their servants. Government is organized with a view to their protection, and can not divest itself of the power to provide for them."

And yet the legislature of the State of Georgia, permes to say to the people of every county, that if one more than one half of the voters thereof so decide, and that means that if about one-tenth of all the people of the county so decide, the county shall engage in this business, of sin, crime, blood, and iniquity.

It should be the business of all law to protect and encourage what is right, and prohibit what is wrong.

The preamble of the constitution of the United States affirms as the reasons for the establishment of our great government,—to establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity.

And yet I deliberately affirm, and no well informed person will dare to contradict it, that the liquor power through the sale and use of intoxicating beverages,—usually called the saloon,—over-rides justice, violates peace and domestic tranquility, destroys life, liberty, and property, is an enemy to the public welfare, and is a constant and ever-increasing menace to the safety and perpetuity of our most cherished institutions, the home, the school, the church, our country, and should be destroyed instead of protected and supported by legal enactments.

The fact of it is, that the whole liquor business is a criminal outlaw, and lives only by grace of legislative sanction and protection.

The Supreme Court of the United States has affirmed that no person or corporation, public or private, has any natural or inherent right to traffic in intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, because of the crime and misery attributable to this traffic.

Then I deny the right or authority of any legislative body, or of any body of voters to give legal existence to this crime of crimes and curse above curses, the traffic in intoxicating beverages, whether it be by licensed saloon or by dispensary. "It can not be legalized without sin."

My friends, we are coming to a parting of the ways,—to a crucial point on the question. And it behooves you as people, as citizens, as members of a Christian community to get full light upon this matter.

And this Union should be an instrument of education along these lines.

I do not purpose to discuss these propositions further now. But you think upon them. As right is right, and as God reigns and holds us accountable, they are matters of momentous concern to all of us.

In my opinion this Union ought to be much more active, much more thoroughly organized, and united than ever before.

I would suggest that the constitution be so revised as to make the life members or those who expect to be members so long as they reside here, the active, voting, business members; and all others who join for the current year only, associate members.

And I think it would be well for the active members, either through the entire body or through committees responsible to the body, to plan and execute more definite works of education along proper lines, and to see to it that all anti-liquor laws are strictly enforced. If we are not careful our dry county will become so leaky as scarcely to be recognizable.

Organize, educate, agitate, execute.

Moral suasion for the liquor drinker. Legal suasion for the liquor maker. Prison suasion for the liquor seller. And education on the subject for all of us.

THE NUGGET.

DAHLONEGGA, DEC. 13, 1901.

Entered at the Dahlonega, Ga. P. O. as Second Class Matter.

The Douglasville, Ga., bank was relieved of about $2,000 the other night by safe blowers.

Last week during the snow Dixie was certainly in it. It snowed from Virginia to Mississippi.

The depot bill appropriating half a million dollars to build a new structure in Atlanta has passed the legislature.

Harry Smith, the 19-year-old boy who killed his father in Hart county on the 27th of July, has been acquitted. Turns out that he did it in self defense.

Hereafter let the Georgia legislature give Atlanta anything she asks for at the start, for she will come out successful in the wind up. It will be much cheaper.

State School Commissioner Glenn has been sued for $25,000 by superintendent J. N. Rogers of Washington county, claimed to be damages growing out of the recent trouble of the two school officials, being the result of a letter written by Mr. Glenn.

Last week in the U. S. Senate when Mr. Hoar sought to advance the consideration of certain pension bills Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, objected, remarking: "There is too much slack on pensions and I would like to tighten it up a little." Yes, this ought to have been done long ago.

The Nugget says corn is seventy cents a bushel. And cabbage one and one-half cents per pound, off of the wagons in Dahlonega. Bile them cabbage down Mr. editor and we'll come and dine. They are going at three cents a pound here and corn at eighty cents per bushel.—Glasseck Banner.

Jim Robinson, a white man, shot 20 negroes at a negro dance at Shoal Creek, Hart county, S. C. the other night. Two were killed outright, two will die and the remaining 16 are dangerously wounded. Robinson went to dance and a row got up, he went away and returned with a Winchester and shot with the above results. Some negro mortally wounded him in the fight.

We have been sent a sample copy of a paper containing the President's message by the News-Paper Union to endeavor to induce us to use the patent outside. Life is too short for people to read any such articles as the President's message. It takes up too much space and time for him to tell what the country needs—like the stuffering man—the building would burn down before he could tell where the fire was at.

Mrs. Aldrich, an aged lady living near Bath, Ga. was assaulted and severely beaten by a negro brute last Friday morning. The racial stole forty dollars and made her escape. We are opposed to mob violence but lawful justice seems to be too mild for such a miscreant—the lady is crippled and almost blind.—Glasseck Banner. Really hell is too good a place for such rascals yet we believe in such cases as this they should be rushed off as soon as possible to reap their reward.

A delightfully personal article, showing the new President as he rides and hunts and camps, will soon appear in The Ladies' Home Journal. The writer of the article has known him intimately, traveled thousands of miles with him, and seen him under conditions of the most varying nature. He will tell how the President feels the trees on his own place, and splits wood; how he is training his children to love riding, swimming and walking, and living outdoors. It will be a close view of the Chief Executive in the life he most enjoys. Says the Ellijay Courier. Such as this makes us tired and sick at the stomach.

The bill to repeal the county institutes was killed in the house.

While the President's message is supposed to be an able document life is too short to read it.

The daily papers have Miss Stone, the captive missionary, dead one week and alive the next.

Gambling and the illegal selling of liquor has caused sixty-five true bills to be returned in America. Quite a lively time.

If Senator Barrows bill becomes a law all anarchists will stand a poor chance in America and less prospects they will lose their lives.

A bill, introduced by an Ohio congressman, is before congress to pension Mrs. McKinley at the rate of $5,000 per year beginning September 14, 1901.

At Pittsburg, Pa. during a fire the father threw several of his children from a window in order to try to save them, but in spite of this his wife and one child was cremated.

A defective switch on the Central caused a serious wreck Sunday morning at 2:30 o'clock near Ocmulga river in which two negroes were killed and seven other persons seriously hurt.

The report made by Uncle Sam shows that the world's output of gold for the calendar year 1900 was $354,926,897. As you well know Lumpkin county helped to make this production of gold.

"Col." J. M. Smith, the late candidate for gubernatorial honors is writing to some of our most prominent citizens letters in relation to his race. The best way for him to know is at the ballot box.

On account of the scarlet fever in Blue Ridge the town council has passed an ordinance compelling all children under the age of sixteen to stay in doors. How would you like to be the marshal over there?

The general assembly is scheduled to close this evening (Friday). Fortunately this time the closing hours does not come on Saturday and they will not have to turn the hands of the clock back Friday to keep from finishing their work on Sunday as heretofore has been the custom.

The governments report recently on cotton, predicting only a nine and one-half million bales crop sent that staple up two dollars per bale and it will go higher. The Crown Cotton Mill of this city is therefore today $6,000 better off than on yesterday. Dalton Citizen. The poor farmer being unable to hold it is, as usual the loser.

We notice that Prof. Yeates, state geologist, in this report of the magnificent water powers of Georgia in the Alkalast, a southern magazine published in Atlanta, Ga., does not mention any of those in Lumpkin county. Nevertheless they are here and will be utilized by and by even if they have been unnoticed by this official.

Hon. Pope Barrow, of Savannah, Ga., passed through Blue Ridge, Monday last, on his way to Murphy, N. C., on a business trip, and called to see us while here. He says South Georgia, with the exception of two counties is sold for Col. J. H. Estill for Governor of Georgia, and that these two counties are in doubt as to who they are for, but it is more than likely they will go for him.—Blue Ridge World.

The governor has vetoed the dispensary bill, causing Mr. Wright, of Floyd county, the author of the bill, to be a little warm. The temperance people "want whole hog or none" and it will be a long time now it before the legislature gives temperance measures much notice. Mr. Wright is a great mover in this cause and believing that he represented the wishes of the temperance people, supported his bill, is why we say so. But why the governor has signed local dispensary bills not to be left to a vote and then refuse to sign this general act causes people to wonder.

Mining Notes.

The mill out on Cavender's Creek was broken down last week which crippled business until the repairs could be made good.

Messrs. Hutchins and Jones are both down at lot 810 giving the mine their personal attention both day and night, making good money.

Down at the Hand mine a few men are at work taking out ore in the big tunnel which is showing up well and we trust that they will begin to make some money now.

Roberts and his two sons have their little mill in operation down on the Gordon property and are doing well. They are all three good miners, each works, got no bosses which enables them to run a mine at very little expense.

We understand that work will be commenced at the valuable copper mine in this county at an early date. It was tested some a few years ago by deep drilling, convincing Mr. Pratt, one of its owners that it is a good proposition when we get railroad facilities to make shipments.

Thomas Ray, formerly of the Singleton mine, is over at the Pindley assisting in the continuation of the tunnel which was started some months ago, endeavoring to strike a large vein that was worked by Witt and Campbell. A length of 215 has been reached and the vein has not been hit yet. The rock is hard and the drilling has to be done by hand.

The Crown Mountain Company continues to make steady advances toward the fulfillment of the expectations of those interested in the success of the great enterprise. Notwithstanding the fact that since the plant begun operations, practically all the sluicing has been done in hard slate formation, and just now is getting into the bodies of the saprolite belt proper it was anticipated that these slate ledges, through which it was necessary to go to reach the more profitable deposits, would contain some value as was shown by assay and pan tests, but not so much actual results have demonstrated both in the flume lines and mill runs. The 50 stamp mill has so much greater capacity and crushes a larger number of tons per day than was anticipated that it has taxed the giants to their fullest capacity, while working through the brick bat formation, to supply the mill with adequate tonnage, which, with average hardness of ore is about 800 per day. The best saving ever effected in the Dahlonega district is shown at the Crown Mountain mill, and we believe that we hit the truth pretty closely when the statement is made that in our opinion this most desirable result is obtained by two time tested methods, viz: the use of syrup to lubricate the mill cases instead of grease, and a cross dressing of the plates with brush broom. Assays show a value in the tailings, both from the stamp and Huntington mills of 6 to 11 cents per ton and often only a trace. On account of the unprecedented drought that has prevailed during the entire fall months, the plant has been unable to run more than one-quarter of full time, and with this fact in view, the results obtained are more than satisfactory and serve to indicate what can most certainly be expected when the machinery may run steadily. To remedy a recurrence of such a handicap, steps are being taken now to so increase the electrical power by the immediately development of additional water supply that by the time the dry season returns there will be sufficient power to keep the entire plant in constant operation.

Seven thousand barrels of whiskey is to be shipped to Germany by Louisville, Ky. firms in order to dodge the taxes.

Kick a dog and he bites you. He bites you and you kick him. The more you kick the more he bites and the more he bites the more you kick. Each makes the other worse.

A thin body makes thin blood. Thin blood makes a thin body. Each makes the other worse. If there is going to be a change the help must come from outside.

Scott's Emulsion is the right help. It breaks up such a combination. First it sets the stomach right. Then it enriches the blood. That strengthens the body and it begins to grow new flesh.

A strong body makes rich blood and rich blood makes a strong body. Each makes the other better. This is the way Scott's Emulsion puts the thin body on its feet. Now it can get along by itself. No need of medicine.

Asthma Cure Free!

Asthma Cure Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in All Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL. Write Your Name and Address Plainly.

There is nothing like Asthma Cure. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails. The Rev. C. F. Wells, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthma Cure received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was always a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma and thought you had ever spoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full size bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Weechler, Rabbi of the Cong. B'nai Israel, New York, Jan. 3, 1901. DR. TAIT BROS. MEDICINE CO., Gentlemen: Your Asthma Cure is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful. After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthma Cure contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or other. Very truly yours, REV. DR. MORRIS WEECHLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

DR. TAIT BROS. MEDICINE CO. Gentlemen: I write this testimony from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthma Cure for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I was induced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthma Cure. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully, G. L. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAIT BROS. MEDICINE CO. Gentlemen: I was troubled with asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I saw your advertisement and ordered a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have now purchased your full size bottle and I am very grateful. I have family of four children and for six years was unable to work. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. Home address, 2311 Broadway, S. RAPHAEL, 67 East 126th St., City.

THE NUGGET.

DAHLONEGA, DEC. 13, 1901.

Col. Baker was called to Atlanta this week on a summons from the U. S. Court on matters of importance.

Prof. Stewart represents the strongest companies in America, so you will be sure to get what is due if a fire comes.

Miss Birdie Meaders, who has been down the country teaching some time, is upon a few weeks visit to relatives and friends.

Your attention is called to the card of W. J. Worley, attorney at law and real estate dealer. Any business put into his charge will be carefully looked after.

The little folks are around soliciting subscriptions to be used for the purchase of presents for a Christmas tree. Oh, if we could only be a boy again so as to spend the happy holidays, the happiest days on earth like we used to.

The present management of Mr. Thomson, of Hall's Villa, is attracting the attention of the traveling public generally. Good fare and clever treatment is the watch word of this house is why the weary travelers are turned in that direction.

Don't forget the city meeting that is to be held to nominate a mayor and three aldermen. Be sure and register and be on hand and cast your ballots for the most competent persons to fill these positions—men who will do justice to all alike.

The other day two little colored boys tried their skill by the use of the knife in such a manner as to cause them all to love and respect him. This is something unusual is why we stop to make the remark with pleasure.

We have never had a more agreeable commandant here than Capt. Caskey. He advises and fronts the cadets in such a manner as to cause them all to love and respect him. This is something unusual is why we stop to make the remark with pleasure.

We understand that when a vote was taken by members of the church for a Christmas tree that the majority was against it and the minority voters will do all they can to get up a nice tree. Help them. You remember how you enjoyed Christmas trees when small.

The farmers of this county should pay more attention to the culture of cane than they have been doing heretofore. If every tiller of the soil would do this and make as good syrup as Uncle Pink Gillispie of this county, there would be no use in depending upon South Georgia nor no other section for your supply of sweetness.

Virgo Moose is ready for the holiday season. He has already had a dance or two at his house and promised more. He can't dance himself but can play the fiddle for those who do participate in the shuffling of the feet. For convenience and pleasure every house should have a fiddler, and girls who want to get married (and that is all) should have an eye to this and select a good musician.

A committee from the legislature composed of Hons. F. J. Fredrick, J. C. Knight, J. B. George and J. C. Foster came up last week and stopped at Hall's Villa. The object of their visit here was to inspect the college buildings and to examine the books of the treasurer etc. After this was completed the chairman expressed himself as being highly pleased with the institution, saying that the most good had been accomplished at the least expense of any institution in the state. Mr. Knight was a student of this institution in 1891 and '92 and it was a great pleasure for his old friends here to see him once more in the town of his schoolboy days.

Is your house insured? If not why not?

R. W. Walker paid Atlanta a business trip this week.

Young man, beware of the young lady that is afraid of a cow.

Hugh Smith, who has been doing business at Porter Springs for a year or more has moved to Grace Ga., where he will continue in the mercantile business.

Those who have been stealing our office wood will please discontinue it. If you really need it just tell us and we will donate liberally to your wants.

An effort is being made to get a daily mail route established between this place and Gaddistown, in Union county. It most certainly needs it as the contractors had to put on an extra team one day last week to carry it.

You will find it to your interest to visit the store of J. M. Ricketts as he proposes to give the best bargains of any merchant in town until Christmas. A full line of temperance drinks always on hand. Oranges two cents each and other goods very cheap.

The ordinary and postmaster decided not to wait any longer about lighting up the postoffice and court house. So now we can enjoy beautiful electric lights in the postoffice, (which is in the court house), in the ordinary's office and in the grand jury room, used by the city council.

Dr. Stansbury, who has been keeping books here for the Consolidated Co. for a year or more left last week for his home in the north. He had just gone into the Union Store, belonging to the company or some of its members to take the place of J. B. Witt, but after a few days work things didn't suit him and he left.

Mr. Pierce, the newly appointed minister to the Methodist church at this place, delivered his first sermon last Sunday. The text was the same that was used by Rev. Wallace Rogers just before his departure for Norcross. We didn't hear Mr. Pierce but from what we understand he is a very able minister who will do great work here during the coming year, provided all members of his church will do their duty.

We have the finest line of Christmas presents and the greatest variety of toys ever shown in Dahlonega and our prices are like the prices on meat and flour "close." We think we are going to have enough to go round this time but our sales increase so rapidly that you had better come early and avoid the rush that always occurs for our cheap priced goods the last few days before the 25th. They are now opened up and being selected rapidly. Remember we expect you to take the things put up for you and we can't take back unused stuff.

B. R. MEADERS & SONS.

Another year has about closed and the Nugget is still alive and prospering without any change in its ownership for the past four years. Not long since when the Hix process was talked of being introduced into this county by certain promoters of the Consolidated Co., some of them decided to purchase the Nugget. A fancy price was offered us. But we didn't care to sell and tie our hands from the newspaper business for two years in Dahlonega. The newspaper work is a pleasure to us besides we didn't care to be idle all this time. We had but little confidence in this new so called gold saving process and didn't intend for any of our northern friends to get into a snare and lose their money if we could help it. Of course we want capitalists to invest here, but at the same time we want them to put their money into something that will pay them. Experiments like this cost big money, pays the promoters well and injures the country in such a manner that it takes a long time for it to recover. We give you these facts to show why they wanted to buy us out.

It's right funny. Certain ladies of Dahlonega who are opposed to cigarette smoking, use all the tobacco and snuff they can get almost at home and when they go out on the streets they look upon tobacco users with scorn almost.

Do you think the railroad will be built sure? This is the question that is asked us almost every day. They are grading the road and working on the power plant and contracting for cross ties. What more does it take to convince you?

A correspondent of the Cleveland Courier says that thousands of bundles of fodder have been hauled from White county this fall to Dahlonega which brought $1.75 per hundred. This does not speak well of the farmers of Lumpkin. They should raise enough to supply the demand of the county.

Last week it snowed again and on Friday the trees were covered with all that would stick to them but the ground was too wet for it to remain very long. However, there was enough snow in the woods for the boys to go out hunting—two negroes and one white person to every rabbit in the enduro country.

While before our Superior Court convened Belle Bardell left her husband and went away with Babe Coffey, both colored. And now we understand that they are down at Marietta, Ga., and that the woman promenades the streets with one hand holding up the back of her skirt in a very stylish manner and calls herself Misses Belle Coffey.

Y. M. White, of Kyle, Ga., informs us that if any one desires a good nice mine up in Chastate district, in Lumpkin county, that he can put them on track of one that has never yet been discovered. Let some in the business address him so it can be opened up. We want prosperous times all along the line and this is what it takes to make them so.

Now, as we have stated before, in selecting a ticket for mayor and aldermen choose men who are in favor of "equal rights to all and special privileges to none." In other words, elect men who will favor working over street in Dahlonega regardless of whether any of them or their kindreds live on them or not—treat all alike. Then everybody here will love and respect the officials; the place will grow and the people will prosper and we will all be happy.

Some of our merchants are going to economize by trying the plan of advertising on a rail fence next year instead of patronizing the newspapers. The Nugget has always endeavored to get the citizens to spend their change with their home merchants instead of carrying the money off—really we have refused to contract with non-resident merchants offering special inducements, and this is the thanks we got for it. We will be remembered we suppose when the season for obituaries roll round. And if any if you are miffed at any truths that we have stated, it makes no difference. We are neither a beggar nor boot licks and will continue to give the news just as it occurs.

Mr. Pierce, the newly appointed Methodist preacher is here. He will doubtless find many peculiar things in Dahlonega that he is not used to. It is the ways of the mountain people and he must not think strange of it. He may think it a little odd when he examines the list of temperance members and fails to see some of the most prominent names of the church missing, and last but not least when it comes time for the sacrament to be taken that all members do not participate. Some of them pretend to be shining lights of the church, but it makes no difference. The rules of the church must be made not to conflict with their way of serving the Lord. Notwithstanding all this, we are a clever set of people and mean no harm—all want to get to heaven the most public route with the least expense possible.

Be sure and register.

R. C. Thomson has just returned from a visit North where he has been to attend a directors meeting of the Consolidated Co.

Judge Huff is protecting the walls of the jail by having the roof gutted. This is a move in the right direction and will be of lasting benefit.

Last year we donated $15 for religion and only received one prayer. This year we are going to our tail our expenses like some of the merchants, and pray for ourselves.

Mayor Price's annual address is now ready for the councilmen to listen to. It is quite lengthy, however, it is not as long as the president's message though many suggestions and recommendations are made.

The mayors election in Gainesville last Tuesday caused many people here in Dahlonega to be very much interested. Judge Gaston used to be a Dahlonega boy caused it. Mr. Parker defeated him by something over a hundred.

R. C. Thomson, who has just returned from the North says that the Consolidated Co., will grant the Gainesville and Dahlonega Electric line the right of way through its property here in a few days. Then work will begin at this end of the railroad.

News has just reached Dahlonega that Mr. Wynn, the inventor of the new so called gold saving process which we mentioned last week is dead. It may be that the death of Mr. Wynn will save many persons hundreds of dollars who some times get crazy on the subject of mining with new processes.

We continue to receive renewals for subscriptions to the Nugget from members of the Consolidated Co. (not promoters.) They like to hear the truth about their affairs here, although it is discouraging. We were in hopes that Mr. Breyman, the vice president of the company, would pull them out of the mire when he took hold but his mind runs too much on new "gold saving" processes.

We understand that Col. Price has stated that Col. Baker can't field mayors office in Dahlonega if elected on account of his being U. S. Commissioner. U. S. Commissioners have held the mayors office in other cities much larger than Dahlonega and we can't see why it is not legal in this city. If it should conflict in any manner Col. Baker has stated that he will resign as U. S. Commissioner.

Judge Huff, in company with the committee appointed by the grand jury at the recent term of Lumpkin Superior Court to look after the interests of the paupers of this county by purchasing a more desirable and profitable farm than the present one made an inspection of the same last Tuesday. Each member is thoroughly convinced that the county owns a "poor farm" beyond a doubt, but have not come to any decision yet.

Mrs. Lee, the poor ignorant woman who was confined in jail here at the last term of Lumpkin Superior Court charged with malicious prosecution and ordered to be kept there until the cost was paid, is still in prison. This woman is poor and it is wrong to keep her imprisoned because she is penniless and unable to help herself and we trust that Judge Estes will consider this matter and order the poor woman released.

Some of the members of the board of trustees of the college got mad, so we understand, because we recently stated that "some of them had little interest in the institution except to get what money they could out of it when a building was to be erected," or words of this effect. It's so, and we can prove it, and if they are mad we don't give a straw. This way of poor men hating to work for the college and being compelled to take their labor up in goods when there is money in the treasury is not right. Is it just? Deny it and we will prove it.

The price of fodder is decreasing a little in Dahlonega.

B. R. Meaders & Sons South Georgia syrup has been received.

The Presbyterian people are making arrangements to buy their church a bell.

Rise early if you want to get your mail off. It leaves for Gainesville about sun rise now.

Mayor Price's veto of the council act in closing Tan Yard street covers several pages of legal cap paper.

J. W. Wallace has moved back to Oreginton, Ga. He is a nice clever man and we all dislike to give him up.

Remember those nice Christmas goods at Gurley. Then another thing interesting. He is closing out a lot of clothing at greatly reduced prices.

FOR SALE.—Some rare bargains in furniture and household goods Tuesday next, by Mrs. J. N. Dufree at the residence next to girl's dormitory.

This year some parties, both north and south, have so much confidence in the Nugget, that they have sent in and paid for two years subscription in advance.

G. H. McGuire, the jeweler will have in a fine lot of musical instruments for the holiday trade next week. Also a good assortment of watches and other things.

The Electric Railway Co. purchased all the scrapes belonging to the Consolidated Co. this week and sent them down on the railway line between here and Gainesville.

Bob Payne's family residing out in the country, claimed to have the small pox, are getting all right. None of them went to bed with it and not even a physician was called in.

A bull which Geo. Housely was bringing in from the country the other day, got unruly and it looked for awhile like it was going to use George up. He was bruised considerably.

A nice lot of Christmas goods to be found at Mrs. Strickland's. Also some goods in the millinery line have been reduced in price so they can be used by Santa Claus for nice presents.

The legislature has failed to make any provisions for indigent widows already allowed, and they will have to do without next year. The school teachers will only get a portion of their money.

From what a certain friend told us the other day, who had just returned from across the Blue Ridge, we judge that liquor is scarce over there. He said he passed through "Liquor Kingdom," which has always been wet before and couldn't get a single drop there nor no where on the route.

Senator W. H. McAfee stands to his post either in time of war or in time of peace. He has not been home since the legislature has been in session while other members live near a hundred miles from Atlanta go home every night. But as the legislature closes this week both he and representative Bruce will now make their appearance.

What's become of J. W. Adams' Sunday School class of grown people he was "teaching" here last year to "remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy" and at the same time president of a mining company that was forcing laboring men to work on Sunday. We may be a little inquisitive but are simply asking for information in order to get something to put into the paper.

Mr. Breyman, a big stock holder in both the Consolidated and Standard companies—president of the latter and vice president of the former—left this week again for the north. Mr. Breyman is a nice clever, whole souled gentleman in every sense of the word but has no practical knowledge of mining, and therefore but little good can be expected of these enterprises until he "cuts his eye teeth" and learns to employ only practical men to superintend his mines in each department.

Temperance Union Officers.

At the annual meeting of the Dahlonega Temperance Union at the Presbyterian church, the following were elected the officers for the coming year, 1902:

President, Wilburn Colvin.
1st Vice President, E. S. Copeland.
2nd Vice President, Rev. R. D. DeWeese.
3rd Vice President, Rev. J. D. Blackwell.
Secretary, V. R. Hicks.
Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Blackburn.

Epworth League Officers.

The following were elected as the officers of the Epworth League for the coming year, beginning January 1st, 1902, at the annual meeting of the League held last week:

President, Prof. Wilbur Colvin.
1st Vice-President, Mrs. E. S. Copeland.
2nd Vice-President, Mrs. B. P. Gaillard.
3rd Vice President, Mrs. Wilber Colvin.
Secretary, Miss Anna Worley.
Treasurer, Mr. J. F. Broach.
Organist, Mrs. W. F. Worley.
The League has had a successful year and is in fine condition. The League will give a reception to the new pastor and his wife next Saturday evening at the residence of Prof. B. P. Gaillard. All members are urged to attend.

But few people can be seen on the streets of a pretty day. This proves that we are having prosperous times and that all industrious people are at work.

The wall next to W. P. Price, Jr., has been taken down at the expense of the Consolidated Co. A former council gave permission for it to be built and the present one has ordered it to be taken down.

We were close to a certain place the other night and heard them singing "Oh, how I long to be there" none being no nearer ready than we are, should the Old Man toot his horn. We will tell you what's the fact. We are not anxious to leave Dahlonega by any means. It is plenty good and ample large enough for us.

Ladies who are too poor to own two dish rags and are too lazy to use one, should not turn up their nose while passing ye editor, because he has said something that pinches their toes. We don't expect to live always and are going to make the best of life until we are handed a crown and told to go and rest in peace and put into a position where we can look down with scorn upon such deceitful people.

The Man With the Black Whiskers.

Georgia has a stringent law forbidding its citizens to carry pistols. Shortly after the passage of this enactment Judge Lester was holding court in a little town, says the Marietta Journal. When suddenly he suspended the trial of the case by ordering the sheriff to lock the door of the court house.

"Gentlemen," said the Judge, when the doors were closed, "I have just seen a pistol on a man in this room, and I cannot reconcile it to my sense of duty to let such a violation of the law pass unnoticed. I ought, perhaps to go before the grand jury and indict him, but if the man will walk up to this stand and lay his pistol and a fine of $1 here I will let him off this time."

The judge paused, and a lawyer sitting just behind him got up, slipped his hand into his pocket, drew out a neat, ivory handled six shooter and laid it with $1 down upon the stand.

"That is all right," said the judge, "but you are not the man I saw with the pistol."

Upon this another lawyer arose and laid down a Colt's revolver and a dollar bill before the judge, who repeated his former observation. The process went on until nineteen pistols of all sizes and kinds and shapes lay upon the stand, together with $10 by their side. The judge laughed as he complimented the nineteen delinquents upon being men of business but added that the man whom he had seen with the pistol had not yet come up, and, glancing at the far side of the court, he continued: "I'll give him one minute to accept my proposition, and if he fails, I will hand him over to the sheriff."

Immediately two men from the back of the court arose and began to move toward the judge's stand. Once they stopped to look at each other and then coming slowly toward, laid down their pistols and their dollars. As they turned their backs the judge said:

"The man with the black whiskers is the one that I originally saw."

One Way to Sell Land.

"Do you know how they sell land out in Kansas?" Asked George Duncan. He was back at the old home for reunion of the old Brighton school, of which he was a pupil when a boy.

"When a real estate man has a customer from a distance to see a farm that lies some distance out of the city, he makes his arrangements before hand.

"He has a team of fast horses waiting to take customer out to look at the farm, and just as they are starting a pretty girl happens along and he greets her cordially. She is sure to be a pretty girl and a witty one.

"She asks the real estate man where he is going, and when he tells her she remarks that it will be a lovely drive, as the country is so pretty in that direction.

"Then the real estate man introduces the pretty girl to the stranger and finally asks her if she would like to ride out to the farm with them.

"Of course she says 'yes,' and gets into the seat beside the stranger, while the real estate man drives. He keeps the horses going at a good clip all the way and the pretty girl makes equal speed with her talk.

"She is so bright and witty that the stranger thinks they have been on the road but a few minutes when they arrive at the farm. He is surprised to find it so near the town.

"After he has bought the farm and driven out to it alone, when there is no pretty girl on the seat beside him, he is surprised to see how far from town it is. The real estate man had pretty girls for their stenographers and teach them their part of the game."—Cleveland Leader.

The One Day Cold Cure.

For colds and sore throat use the Kennedy's Cherry Laxative Quinine. Taken as candy and quickly cures.

YOU DON'T KNOW how quickly a burn or scald can be cured until you have treated it with Mexican Mustang Liniment. As a flesh healer it stands at the very top.

The Making of Character.

Do not let us suppose that character requires great circumstances for the making. Character can be made in poor circumstances. There are huge manufacturing in this country, with magnificent machinery, with chimneys belching forth black smoke to pollute the air, where they turn out carpets of most wonderful aspect, which would make you almost ill to look at it, and which perish quickly in the using.

Far away in the East, in some poor little hut, an Eastern workman is working with threads of many colors besides him; he has been toiling for years, and when he has finished he will have turned out a single square of such beautiful coloring and such perfect workmanship that when it comes to this country, it will be bought at a great price, and the owner's great-grandchildren will see it fresh and beautiful. So much for the great manufacturing and the whirling wheels and the noise and the smoke; so much for the quietness and obscurity of a single workman.—Rev. John Watson, D. D.

Qualifications of a Mayor.

In answer to an inquirer Hon. W. J. Bryan, in the Commoner, gives his opinion as the qualities the mayor of a municipality should possess: A mayor is an executive officer, and should have executive ability, which may be described as the ability to organize and perform work by the employment of the most systematic, thorough and economical means. He should also be a man of integrity, and by that is meant that he should not only be able to resist the temptations which come in a multitude of forms, but should have an honest purpose to administer his office as a public trust. He should have moral courage—a quality less common than ability and integrity—to do his duty according to his judgment, regardless of the treats of enemies or the persuasion of friends. The municipal government of a city of an considerable size offers great and honorable opportunities for men who desire to see the government administered in such a way as to protect the equal rights of all and give special privileges to none.

A young fellow over in Barren county had his picture taken, and that of his dog at the same time. He showed both pictures to his best girl and told her to take her choice. She kept the picture of the dog and remarked that she would keep it and think of him.—Ex.

Friend Who Never Forsakes.

Honor your dear old mother. Time has scattered snow flakes on her brow and plowed deep furrows in her cheeks but isn't she sweetly beautiful now? The lips are thin and shrunken, but those are the lips which have kissed many a tear from the childish cheeks, and they are the sweetest lips in the world. The eye is dim, yet it glows with the radiance of holy which can never fade. Ah, yes, she is a dear old mother. The sands of life are nearly run out, but feeble as she is, she will go farther and reach down lower for you than any other person on earth. You cannot walk into a midnight in which she cannot see you, you can never enter a prison whose bars will keep her out; can never mount a scaffold too high for her to reach, that she may kiss and bless you in evidence of her deathless love. When the world shall despise and forsake you by the wayside to die unnoticed, the dear old mother will gather you in her feeble arms and carry you home and tell of your virtues until you almost forget that your soul is disfigured by vices. Love her tenderly and cheer her declining years with holy devotion.—Hamilton Herald.

The Hoop-Snake.

James N. Lawrence, an old resident of this place, says a Coulterville (Ill.) letter to St. Louis Globe-Democrat, says that people who say there are no such things as hoop-snakes don't know what they are talking about. Mr. Lawrence has had several thrilling encounters with these reptiles and has killed several of them. The first one he ever saw was in Ocean county, New Jersey, in 1871 while he was out hunting with a party of friends. He killed the snake and found it to be about seven feet long. On the reptile's tail was a prong or horn-shaped affair about three inches long. This contained poison. Near Cape Girardeau, Mo., he killed another hoop-snake. This was in 1858, it was about five feet long and was supplied with the same prong or poison horn that was found on the first one he killed. Both snakes were rolling along on the ground at a lively rate, when shot by Mr. Lawrence.

Horseless carriages, wireless telegraphy, smokeless powder, hornless cattle and brainless dudes have been the vogue for some time, but this year the fad seems to have taken hold of the farmers of this county and they raised earless corn this year. If some of them don't get a move on themselves they will soon have fenceless and stockless farms.—Jim Smith's Gem.

"Be a Good Boy; Good Bye."

How oft in my dreams I go back to the day
When I stood at our old wooden gate,
And started to school in full battle array,
Well armed with a primer and slate.
And as the latch fell I thought myself free,
And gloried, I fear, on the sly,
Till I heard a kind voice that whispered to me,
"Be a good boy; good bye."

"Be a good boy; good bye," it seems
They have followed me all these years;
They have given a form to my youthful dreams,
And scattered my foolish fears,
They have stayed my feet on many a brink,
Unseen by a blinded eye;
For just in time I would pause and think:
"Be a good boy; good-bye."

O, brother of mine, in the battle of life,
Just starting or nearing its close,
This motto aloft in the midst of the strife,
Will conquer wherever it goes,
Mistakes you will make, for each of us errs,
But, brother, just honestly try
To accomplish your best, in whatever occurs,
"Be a good boy; good bye."

—Saturday Evening Post.
Spare Us.

It is announced that the famous Ogden party who turned the south some time ago in the interests of education, have decided to place certain men of note in the field for the purpose of carrying out the objects of the association. It is stated that the association purposes to spend no money directly for the cause of education in the south, but that it will endeavor, through its field agents, to awaken the south to its duty to provide adequate educational facilities to all children of school age in this section.

Booker Washington has been appointed one of the field agents for the south. As negroes need no urging to induce them to attend school; and, as they are without means it would be useless to appeal to them to provide funds for schools, the inference is that he is expected to work among the whites for this purpose.

It is sincerely to be hoped that these misguided northern philanthropists will refrain from their contemplated purposes. The south is backward, and slow to move it is true, but things will work out right in due time. Nothing will be gained, but rather harm done, by this officious meddling by strangers with matters that do not concern them.—Marietta Journal.

A Big Sum For Missions.

Col. E. Faw, executor, sent ten thousand dollars, the other day, willed by Mrs. Dr. T. S. Stewart, to the trustees of the General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church Foreign Mission Board. Mrs. Stewart had left this large sum in her will for missions. Col. Faw also sent $1,000 willed by Dr. Stewart for like purposes, making $11,000 given to this cause.—Marietta Journal.

The greatest trouble with American Journalism is that the men who know how a newspaper ought to be run are unfortunately engaged in some other business.—Ex.

One Boy's Mistake.

This is not an "imaginary" tale. It is out of the bitter experience of one who has just come to an untimely end. I knew him well. Gifted with talents that would easily have sent him to congress as the representative of a great body of intelligent people, a favorite in the society of men of finest culture with wealth at his command such as few possess, and with a shrewdness which would have helped him to avoid the pit falls into which others might easily have fallen, he yet made a miserable failure.

I knew him when as a boy, he pitched the ball for his nine, and the shouting hundreds paid tribute to his skill. He never lost his nerve, even in the greatest excitement. Where others failed he succeeded. His tongue and manner led him to complete victory in every oratorical contest, and his brilliancy won him entrance into the brightest homes. His natural gifts exceeded his acquired gifts, great as these were, for all that modern culture could give was at his command and eagerly sought.

What was the secret of his failure? Wealth, learning and position were already his and it needed but the magic of his touch to leave behind an enduring fame.

Let me tell you the secret. He left out Christ. Every Sabbath he attended church, even acting as usher. The services left his soul untouched, or, if they did call him to repent, his iron will thrust the call aside. He went to a Christian college, but although he daily associated with boys of his class, twelve of whom became ministers, their example counted for naught. Some of them talked with him about accepting Christ. "I have no desire to accept Christ and probably never shall be connected with any church," and decided stand. He acknowledged the excellence of religion, and later in agony at the death bed of his mother he was known to have prayed, but this did not seem to have any impression on his mind. He resolutely shut religion out of his life.

In the building up of his profession career came. The grandfather who had shaped his life in many ways died. He had loved his grandfather as few grandsons do, and his death was a great blow. Without the consolation of religion he cast about for relief and found it in the cup, but he was always in perfect control of himself, as moderate drinkers claim to be. Cares piled and little things magnified in his mind.

He was engaged to a beautiful Christian girl who refused to marry him until he reformed. Putting aside drink and tobacco and cards he stopped off short, and those who knew his iron will predicted he would win out on moral principles alone. But it was too late. That splendid intellect which now depended on stimulants became confused and disjointed and the boy of so much promise is dead, slain by his own hand.

Had he accepted Christ early in life, he would have shunned the evils, and leaning on the strong arms of his Savior, have manfully met the difficulties in his path. Every life carries its own message. Some times it is a danger signal warning us to beware of its follies. Sometimes it is a welcome hand beckoning us forward. What shall ours be?—O. B. Joyful in Ram's Horn.

Now that the Georgia legislature has adjourned what will we all talk about?

ALARMING THE YOUNG MAN.

Take a Girl Home and Now He Wants Some Advice.

It was the second time that the hero of the story had accompanied the young lady home. She asked him if he wouldn't come in. He said he would.

Sarah took his hat, told him to sit down, and left the room. She was hardly gone before her mother came in, smiled sweetly, and dropping down beside the young man, said:

"I always did say that if a poor but respectable young man fell in love with our Sarah, he should have my consent."

The young man started with alarm.

"She has acknowledged to me that she loves you," continued the mother, "and whatever is for her happiness is for mine."

"I haven't—" stammered the young man.

"Oh, never mind; make no apology. I know you haven't much money, but, of course, you'll live in my house."

"I had no idea of—" he began. "I know you hadn't, but it's all right," continued Sarah's mamma, reassuringly. "With your wages and what the boarders will bring in we shall get along as comfortably as possible."

The young man's eyes stood out like lamps, and he rose and tried to say something.

"Never mind about thanks," she cried, "I don't believe in long courtships. The 20th of May is my birthday, and it would be nice for you to be married on that day." "But—but—but—" he gasped. "There, there. I don't expect any reply," she laughed. "I try and be a model mother-in-law. I believe I'm good-tempered and kind-hearted, though I did once follow a young man a hundred miles with a broomstick for agreeing to marry my daughter and then backing out of the engagement."

She patted him on the head and smiled.

And now the young man wants advice. He wants to know whether he had better get in the way of a locomotive or jump off the nearest bridge.—Tit-Bits.

Then And Now.

Then:—Only a few years ago a young man of promise was invited to sign a pledge and declined saying, "why should I deny myself the use of the cheering wine, because some people abuse it. I can drink or leave it alone."

Now:—A man staggered into a pawn shop in New York the other day, laying down a package on the counter, exclaimed:

"Give me ten cents!"

The proprietor opened the parcel and found a pair of little red shoes so slightly soiled as to indicate that they seen but little wear.

"Got them home," said the man; "my wife bought them for the baby." Mad with thirst he cried: "Give me ten cents. I must have a drink!"

"You had better take them to your wife," said the pawnbroker, "the baby will need them." "No she won't," said the man, "because she's dead, she's dead I say died in the night." And he bowed his head on the counter and wept like a child.—Ex.

The year closing has been a most prosperous one and every body not to lazy too work has been blessed with plenty.

Mrs. K. L. Boone and her two daughters, Miss Mand and Lizzie, have the small pox at their home on Bradford street Gainesville, Ga.

L. Crawford, the colored representative from McIntosh county, died in Atlanta last week. He had filled this position for four terms. He was one of the only two negroes in the Georgia legislature.

Next year the political pot will be got to boiling and farmers having any rails to split or any other hard work to do should get ready for the candidates are willing to do any thing while aspirants for office.

L. G. Edwards and J. G. Allen, of Blue Ridge, who left there four weeks ago with a drove of mules and horses have returned with several head unsold. They claim that they started too early. Our Lumpkin county horse drovers should take warning and not go too early.

Last Friday was a day fixed for the execution of the negro Bill Collier, at Dalton, who assaulted Mrs. McPherson. He announced that he was ready to go, but his attorneys interfered and secured a lease on his life for a few days. So now if Bill does something that will prevent him from entering the golden gates it will have to be charged up to these lawyers.

As soon as Jackson Superior Court convenes Solicitor General Brand says that he will not prosecute against Gus Fellows, of that county, charged with assaulting a white lady. Three times he has been tried by a Jackson county jury, three times he has been convicted and three times has the supreme court granted a new trial in his case, and the solicitor does not propose to waste any more time in trying to convict him.

When Booker Washington visited Springfield, Mass., the other day the three leading hotels were unable to give this noted man of color a room for the night. Because Booker dined at the table with the president he must not expect to be entertained anywhere he goes likewise. When from home visiting he will have to do like we boys used to when we went to camp meeting: Carry a cold biscuit in our pocket and "stand tied."

The revenue officers in Virginia, report to the collector of the state that the moonshiners have organized a system of signals which serves to completely baffle the officers into the still infected sections is announced by lookouts posted to watch for them. The signal is a series of horn blasts. With the first note of warning the blowing of horns is taken up by others of the inhabitants until in a short while the entire country around is apprised of the presence of the officers of the law. Upon their arrival at any suspected locality not a vestige of the illegal apparatus or its product is to be found. This has been done right here in Lumpkin county and occasionally these who couldn't blow the horn shot at the revenue officers. But things have changed now and people are becoming more law abiding as to the latter.

Mining Notes.

We understand that the mining operations will only suspend work on Christmas day.

At the Lumpkin they have out another nice lot of that good ore from the veins recently mentioned which is as good, if not better than the last mill.

Work is progressing nicely at the Gorge power plant on the Chestatee river. They are making roads, cutting logs for the dam and moving right along.

Wharton Anderson, of the Calhoun mine, was up Sunday and reported everything at this place progressing as usual. This means that they are putting in good time and making money.

The rains have come and miners are rejoicing because it enables them to run on full time. A number of hands have been idle for some time on account of the long dry spell and the rains will be a great blessing to them.

The first and recent clean up at the Gordon mine by Roberts and son was very satisfactory, so they inform us, with a bright prospect of it continuing. They recently secured a lease on this property and are perfectly delighted with the discoveries and results already made.

Since the rains Crown Mountain plant has been running on full time and a bright smile is seen on Manager Moore's face. Night work has been resumed in the cuts causing joy among the laborers, who work, be it either cold, dry or wet. And General Warner is so happy that he moves about as brisk as if he had seen only twenty-five or thirty summers. At the same time when a stranger visits Dahlonega our citizens point to Crown Mountain with pride, causing Col. J. H. Moore vice president to be full of joy all the time.

The last issue of the Manufacturer's Record, published at Baltimore, one of the most reliable journals of the kind, published in the whole country, in speaking of the southern asbestos, says: The bulk of the 1054 short tons of asbestos, valued at $16,310, produced in the United States in 1900 was mined at Ball Mountain, White county, Georgia. There is a constantly increasing demand for the mineral, and new sources of supply are appearing. The mineral has been found near North Wilkesboro, N. C., and is reported in the central portion of Bedford county, Virginia.

What is the use for people to be fooling away their time in experimenting with new so called gold saving processes in this country when there is not enough gold escapes to pay for any thing of the kind, even if they properly managed and looked after. For instance take Crown Mountain mill which is arranged so and in such skillful hands that only from 6 to 11 cents worth of gold escapes from a ton of ore as shown from actual assays. Now, what would be the use of spending several hundred dollars for a machine to place below the mill to endeavor to save this small amount?

It is rumored that Capt. Ingersoll will take charge of the Consolidated Co. first of January as general superintendent. We hope this is true for it would be the right man in the right place. The Captain has been here for many years and understands the mines and the people, possessing full knowledge of how to act in selecting his superintendents and miners so as to make the thing pay. No fan tail pigeon bosses would be recognized by him as "experts". Too many of this kind place in charge of this mine already is one reason it has failed to pay, disheartening the stockholders so that they don't even want to look in this direction. But we believe that if Capt. Ingersoll is placed in charge of the Consolidated that he will soon cause their grief to change to happiness and a bright smile will be seen on each and every one of their faces. We have this much confidence in the Captain as a mine manager.

One Loved Place.

One loved place on earth to me is the old N. G. A. Collage. I never hear its name mentioned but what my heart leaps with joy to think of the many bright young men and women who have gone from there and now doing honor to themselves and the grand old institution.

You boys and girls, who are now enjoying the opportunity of being in school, use well your time and talent. Be kind to each other and true to the faithful faculty and do your duty, then next June you will be a brighter boy and girl.

May Prof. Stewart ever be successful in his work for this dear old college.

AN OLD STUDENT.

Two deaths from extreme cold occurred in Atlanta Sunday.

The legislature just closed only passed 15 or 20 general bills.

There is reported to be $100,000,000 in the U. S. treasury which the government does not need.

It is likely that 2,000 children will be dismissed from Atlanta schools because their parents pay no taxes.

Sam Jones says that "he will 'fight whisky until hell freezes over and then fight on in ice.' We suppose he will use skates.

Hon. J. R. Henderson, representative in the legislature from Forsyth county, died at his home near Cumming last week.

Governor Candler approved the local dispensary bill for Wilkes county. How's this? If this law is damaging generally why is it not the same way locally?

S. G. Dover, the married man who recently eloped from Roselle, Ga., with Miss Catharine Taylor, seems to be well supplied with wives. He has them both in Georgia and North Carolina.

The Howell resolution providing for using the public fund of the state, the issue first to be tested in court, passed the legislature by substitute and the widows and school teachers will get their money yet.

O. L. Richards, a dealer in Indian relics, paid $1,000 for an Indian squaw dress, says the Gainesville Cracker. It was ornamented with 1,024 elk teeth, and had been in one family for 127 years.

A number of Hall county citizens left last week for Texas. No doubt in a short time you will hear of some returning. Better stay on the red hills of Georgia and make yourselves content. Moving about doesn't pay.

Jim Smith may have as many bales of $10 bills as he has of cotton, but he has not enough to make him Governor of the State of Georgia. If he has to spend all his money in the county. Estlin would beat him 10 to 1.—Cleveland Courier.

Union county has another new postoffice called Natal, Ga. It is a little strange that the citizens of certain localities in Lumpkin county can't get convenient mail facilities, although several offices have been asked for more none have been established.

Thousands of sheep and their herders have been destroyed in Wyoming this week on account of the wind and snow. The whole country from Minnesota to Texas and from New York to the Rockies have been swept by storms, and the suffering is great.

The little fourteen-year old son of Joseph Logan, of Gainesville, Ga., was killed by a train this week. He had been to deliver some goods and while crossing the track a switch engine struck the wagon, cut the team loose and carried the little fellow some fifty yards before killing him. Corpse was mangled dreadfully. His heart was found in one place and pieces of his body scattered at another. It was said that the boy cried and yelled while being carried by the monster engine, which shows that some one must be in fault.

"The South Carolina and Interstate and West Indian Exposition will be held in the city of Charleston from December 1st, 1901, to June 1st, 1902. There is no place on this continent where the climatic conditions are so favorable for a Mid Winter Exposition.

Out of door life in Charleston during the winter season is a perpetual life.

Flowers bloom in the open gardens throughout the year, and a bowl of roses on the Christmas dinner table is not an unusual sight.

The installation of the officers will take place the 3rd Tuesday night in January, 1902. All the companions are urged to be present.

That Cough Hangs On

You have used all sorts of cough remedies but it does not yield; it is too deep seated. It may wear itself out in time, but it is more liable to produce la grippe, pneumonia or a serious throat affection. You need something that will give you strength and build up the body.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

will do this when everything else fails. There is no doubt about it. It nourishes, strengthens, builds up and makes the body strong and healthy, not only to throw off this hard cough, but to fortify the system against further attacks. If you are run down or emaciated you should certainly take this nourishing food medicine.

Asthma Cure Free!

Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in All Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL. WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails. The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your little bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was always a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had over-spoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full size bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler, Rabbi of the Cong. Bund Israel, New York, Jan. 3, 1901. DR. TAFT BROS' MEDICINE CO. Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful. After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chlorform or ether. Very truly yours, REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO. Gentlemen: I write this testimony from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully, O. E. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO. Gentlemen: I was troubled with asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I then saw your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have not purchased your full size bottle, and I am very grateful. I have family of four children and for six years was unable to work. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. Home address: 235 Richmond st. S. RAPHAEL, 67 East 126th st., City.

TRIAL BOTTLE ABSOLUTELY SENT FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL.

J. W. Murray and J. B. Clements vs. D. H. B. Hooper. Partition of realty in Lumpkin Superior Court October adjourned Term, 1901. Georgia, Lumpkin County. To D. H. B. Hooper: You are hereby notified that the above named plaintiffs have applied to the Superior Court of said county for partition of lot of land number 147 in the Eleventh District of originally Hall now Lumpkin county, Georgia, and that said application has been heard by the judge of said Court at Chambers at Dawsonville, Georgia, on Tuesday, February 11th, 1902, at which time and place you are commanded to be and appear to show cause why partition should not be granted as prayed for. Witness the honorable J. B. Estes, judge of said Court. This November 15th, 1901. Joux H. Moore, Clerk.

There are men in Dahlonega too stingy to start to heaven unless they know that they could get reduced rates.

An altercation Monday night between John B. Brooksher and Kate Carter resulted in the latter being knocked down.

Those nice Christmas goods at H. D. Gurleys is the attraction of the day. Go and make a selection before they are all gone.

Mayor Price, in his report, recommends the next council to tax parties bring vehicles in Dahlonega and such other businesses as they may deem necessary.

The public roads are getting in dreadful bad fix again, but they will not likely receive attention until just before the spring term of court.

Santa Claus will find all kinds of toys for the children at B. R. Meaders & Sons who will give him more goods for the money than any house within 100 miles of Dahlonega.

You will find it to your interest to visit the store of J. M. Ricketts as he proposes to give the best bargains of any merchant in town until Christmas. A full line of temperance drinks always on hand. Oranges two cents each and other goods very cheap.

We are told that more than two hundred persons attended the wedding of the daughter of Rev. Jonathan Gilreath last Sunday in Union county, being Miss Belle Gilreath to Mr. Drew Gooch. This is the largest attended wedding we have lately heard of in upper Georgia.

Holiday prices of goods at B. R. Meaders & Sons Cheap Cash Store: Mixed nuts 20c. Window shades from 10 to 35c. Best patent flour 64c. Good family flour 59c. Full cream cheese 15c. Doll go-carts 28 and 45c. Drums 25c to $100. Shoes for men, women and children at a saving of 25 to 75c per pair. All kinds of Christmas presents 8c to $4.46.

Among the visitors from Kentucky registered at the Dahlonega Hotel this week are Gen. Hardin, E. Doherty, Miss M. A. Doherty, R. T. Tyler and Allison Tyler. The latter gentlemen have been out in Colorado some time for his health and will remain here for awhile to see if the climate agrees and benefits him any. We trust that it will and that the young gentleman will be with us many months.

In preparing his annual report this year Mayor Price recommended that no dogs be allowed to be kept within the city limits of Dahlonega but after considering that the council had already passed an ordinance compelling those keeping dogs to put them into sky scraper pens, he canceled this part of his report, the dogs being so high above the population of the town that any stench they may create passes off without effecting any citizen. Wy, the Colonel was also about to recommend that no cows be allowed to run at large. This was also stricken out after it was written.

Notwithstanding the very cold weather Marshal Grizzle went over in the eastern portion of the county last Tuesday and captured Bob Arnold and John Abercrombie in an illicit distillery. As he was returning to town with the prisoners in the back Young Abercrombie, Jr., a brother of John, was met who commanded John to get out of the back. The marshal was soon out on the ground and told Young to get in and also take a free ride to town as he had a warrant against him. The parties caught stilling will have to remain in jail until the warrants are approved by the district attorney. One of the boys was in his shirt sleeves when he came in causing him to look quite chilly for the season.

Pimp Moore killed a porker the other day weighing 350 pounds.

College stationery for sale at J. F. Moores. Also stationery for other college society.

Rev. A. M. Pierce informs us that Rev. Marks has been appointed preacher in charge of the North Lumpkin Mission.

The U. S. grand jury failed to return any bill against Ben Rayan, who was bound over from this county not long since charged with perjury.

There is a young lady in Dahlonega who is so modest and bashful that she goes into another room to blush when she becomes embarrassed. Oh my.

The reason some people are not as mean as others is because they have never had a chance. Give them an opportunity and you will see which way the wind blows.

Beginning the first of January the N. G. A. College will be insured for five years at the expense of the state. Heretofore it has been done by the trustees but a recent act makes it the duty of the governor.

Three well cooked meals a day, and a wife devoted to her husband and his interests, will do more good to reform and keep them out of bad company than all the sermons and temperance societies that can be given.

There will be two Christmas trees here—one by the Methodists and the other by the Presbyterians. This is what it takes to please the children and encourage them to attend Sunday School. The Baptists will only have a table.

Wednesday was the coldest day we have had this season. There was much ice every where and cold enough to freeze all the eggs at our house. Oh how a hungry country editor enjoys eating eggs that were being saved up for Christmas.

Saturday night as Goley Townsend was returning from Gainesville about dark just as he got into Dahlonega some one, supposed to have had on a dough face scarf his team and it ran a considerable distance before it could be checked up.

A. C. Shultz, a former student of the N. G. A. College, is now teaching down at McKibben, Ga. Mr. Shultz is a bright young man, perfectly honest and some of these days he will make a mark that will be indelible which his many friends here will point to with pride.

Physicians hear no grumbling about their medicine being so bad when they prescribe liquor. We never heard of but one man in this county who actually refused to take it when prescribed by a doctor. And that was Uncle Calch Wimpy, who has long since passed away. He swore off many years before he took sick from ever tasting it again and he stuck to his oath.

Mrs. J. B. Brown, residing about two miles of Dahlonega, is 63 years old and never did a days washing in her life with bar soap. Many other things could be made at home and used with less expense than that purchased. Every person should make it a point to produce every thing they possibly can at home. Then there will be more money in the country and still better times.

Wash Grizzle and Joe Bonner have been taking out some very valuable ore down about the Barlow mine, singing to get out quite a quantity before milling it. The other morning upon returning to their work some of it was missing. An investigation was made and a portion of it was found at or near Tom Darby's house, residing not far away. A warrant was procured for Tom and a younger brother who was living with him and placed in the sheriff's hands. The officer has made several fruitless trips as his presence is more seen where they once peacefully and quietly resided.

B. R. Meaders & Sons want three more good mules.

Some have already ordered their liquor, getting ready to celebrate the birth of Christ on the 25th.

The committee appointed from Dahlonega to attend the recent Good Roads convention held in Atlanta, didn't attend. The roads were two bad to get there.

At the jail the old water tank has been taken down, renovated and repaired to see if a better system cannot be made to supply the upper story of the building with water other than carrying it up a long flight of steps in buckets.

Last Saturday was the rainiest day we have had for many months up till afternoon, preventing country people from visiting town causing everything to look dull and lonesome. But Monday was pay day for two different mining companies, which caused every one to come who was expecting any money.

The students, or that is the most of them, especially those who live for away, wish to have more holidays than is fixed in the catalogue. Just as well give them more time for when they get home their parents will do so and many of them will not be seen here any more for two weeks. But still the teachers have to be on hand and instruct the few that are present.

The city treasurers of Dahlonega heretofore should be compelled to settle all claims according to numbers, taking the oldest first. The way it has been when a little money was paid in the treasurer made the first grab at it and then the rest of the members of the council who desired got the preference. And at the same time many older claims were refused to be paid.

Young man, when you go courting and can find a girl who will sit up by your side cross legged like a gentleman at a festival, use home made tobacco of her own production, active enough to jump a ten rail fence and can shoulder a two bushel sack of corn without even grunting, tie on to her for she will make you a good and useful wife, if she is not very ornamental.

Capt. H. D. Ingersoll, one of the members of the present city council, whose time expires this year, has been troubled more than any of the rest of the body. Not only receiving his share of the cursing usually tendered members of the council in small places, he has worked his own side walk and besides this an effort was made to take away part of his private property without compensation for a useless street.

When one or two members of the city council or a committee does an unwise act the wholebody is blamed for it. This is wrong. Every tub should stand on its own bottom. No better men could have been found in Dahlonega for the position than some of the members of the present city council, and if their votes and acts were given to the public like it is done in all other places, our assertion would be found correct.

There is a city ordinance which makes it a violation of law for any one to explode fire crackers, etc., in Dahlonega at any time, although the mayor generally suspends this ordinance a day or two during the holidays so the little folks can enjoy themselves. But the larger ones are not satisfied. They want to violate the law and have already been shooting crackers and setting teams and succeeding in escaping the watchful eye of the marshal. This way of slipping about in the dark to do this mischief does not only scare teams but endangers the town of being destroyed by fire. The merchants who keeps the fire works are to blame. They ought not to be allowed to sell them until they can be shot by the permission of the authorities, and the one selling them now are just as guilty as those that shoot them, for they are aiders. Extra precaution should be taken. If Dahlonega is reduced to ashes this way it will be too late to act then.

Meal seems to be a scarce article in Dahlonega.

New subscribers still continue to come this way.

We have just received a nice lot of invitation and other cards. Come to see us.

Any job work you want done during the holidays, bring it in. We will be here.

See if your subscription expires to the NUGGET and renew at once so as not to miss a single paper.

Cards are out for the marriage of Mr. Charles L. Harris, formerly of Dahlonega to Miss Deasie Lou Harris, of Winterville, Ga., on Christmas day.

John Hatfield has moved into the Consolidated Co's large hotel so as to look after it. It had been shut up so long that its interior was badly damaging.

Our patrons have kindly remembered us with many loads of wood, which keeps us warm and comfortable while we are getting them out a paper to read.

More Christmas goods have been brought to Dahlonega this season than at any one time since we can remember. This denotes prosperous times and still better expected.

While folder has been going at $1.75 per hundred, it sells for only $1.25 in Gainesville. This is why so much of it has been coming to Dahlonega.

If you wish the NUGGET and the Twice a Week Atlanta Journal at $1.50 for 12 months send in before the year ends. The Journals club rates will be higher then, so the manager informs us.

A load of pumpkins and several possums were brought in last week. Possums sold at 25 cents each and pumpkins from ten to twenty. Now say that we are not having good times in Dahlonega.

Hon. W. H. McAfee has returned home from Atlanta. Hon. G. D. Bruce will be in to-day or tomorrow. They were held over to wind up some legislative business. Both have had an eye to the interest of their constituents and the state of Georgia, causing their many-friends to feel proud of them.

Some of the young ladies have been eating so much stick candy carried them by the boys that they have got sick and tired of it, causing one to enquire the other night of a lad why the boys didn't get other kind of candy besides stick. This was embarrassing to the one spoken to for he thought from the way she devoured it that it was good and very acceptable.

If you need any nice stationary something that is good, call at the NUGGET office. Just as a gentleman remarked the other day, men's business is judged by the kind of stationary they use. If a man was to start out in business and order a lot of goods on time using brown or other inferior paper, the decision would be that if he was not able to purchase first class stationary he couldn't pay for a bill of goods.

As Christmas comes next week and the printers wish a little rest no issue of the NUGGET will appear until the regular day in January. This has been a very prosperous year for us. We have had every thing we needed except religion and we expect we could have been supplied with that had we made a move in the right direction. We extend many thanks to the well wishers and hearty supporters of this paper and wish them a delightful Christmas and a happy and prosperous new year, promising to be out at the beginning of 1902 if kind Providence spares us, with a bright and new sheet which will continue to greet them every week promptly on time. It's true that we have made some enemies but where a paper is not controlled by any detesters and speaks the truth nothing more could be expected. While doing this we have made friends. And in conclusion let us say that the NUGGET will not change its policy in this respect, for we never did hood lick any one, nor do we expect to. So ladies and gentlemen, we bid you good day for 1901.

Charlie Jones is back home to spend Christmas.

The public school closes this week for a short holiday.

Mrs. Isaac Brown died in Martin's Ford district last Monday.

There will be services at the Presbyterian church next Sunday.

In a few days the public school teachers will get their pay for last March.

Another light snow Tuesday—regular hog killing weather this week.

Charlie Moore is coming to town to clerk for one of our business men next year.

This weeks cold weather has been destructive to many of the ladies canned fruits.

Plez Stevens, col., was bound over by Conn. Baker this week charged with retailing.

It turns out that the cherry tree business, which some of our citizens were representing, is a fraud.

A couple of horned horses running away last Tuesday with a wagon was the biggest excitement for the week.

W. M. Cook, who resided in Wahoo district died Monday afternoon after being sick only two days with pneumonia.

The breaking of a little key or guide up at the power plant of the Crown Mountain Co. Wednesday morning caused a stand still for two days.

Mrs. DuPre left Gainesville last Wednesday together with her children. Mr. DuPre will follow as soon as he gets some work completed at the jail.

Some of the mines froze up Wednesday but it turned warmer during the night and another light snow fell making two this week and four for the season.

The work on the power plant for the electric railway is moving forward with much rapidity. All the hands that can be worked to an advantage are engaged.

The yellow flag can be seen on the front fence at Charlie McAfee's on Clarksville street. His little girl Lizzie has the scarlet fever, being the only case in the city at this time.

The cadets turned in their guns last Tuesday and will not have to drill any more until after the holidays. At noon they will be given holiday to continue for about ten days. We wish them all a merry Christmas.

Link Wehnt, the hatless man, was in town last Wednesday in his shirt sleeves with nothing on his head. At the same time the ground was covered with snow and the wind blowing from the north to the tune of zero.

The other day a negro woman by the name of Underwood gave Mrs. Spurling some of her jaw, which resulted in the lady knocking her down with an ear of corn, and it created some excitement for awhile. Corn is valuable.

The Dewey literary society and community will have a Christmas tree Tuesday evening the 24th day of Dec. at 7 o'clock, P. M. Also a box supper will be given, the proceeds to be applied in finishing the church house at Concord. All cordially invited to attend.

John Grindle, who was working at the railway electric plant got caught in the cable as the derrick fell the other day and was jerked down a bluff and his collar bone broken. John Edge's foot was also badly mashed during the week. John lives in White county.

W. F. Birch, who recently left this county, died in St. Louis on the 13th inst. of tuberculosis. For about twenty years Mr. Birch was connected with the local railroads of his city in various capacities, but he retired from business and came to Georgia where he spent nearly three years to endeavor to improve his health, but the change benefited him none and he returned to his native city to pass the rest of his days.

The Mayor's Convention.

According to a previous call from the mayor a meeting was held at the court house last Monday evening to nominate a mayor and three aldermen to fill the vacancies that occur on the first of January, which was, largely, attended.

In a short talk Mayor Price explained the object of the meeting, told of the prosperity of the town, spoke complimentary of the present council and made favorable mention of the members going out.

A move by W. B. Townsend was carried that Col. W. A. Charters be made permanent chairman of the meeting. Then Col. W. S. Huff made a motion that Mr. W. E. Matthews be elected secretary, which motion also carried without opposition, and the business of the meeting commenced by Capt. J. W. Woodward placing in nomination the name of Capt. H. D. Ingersoll for mayor, Col. W. S. Huff nominated Col. R. H. Baker and Mr. Lewis Price nominated Mr. W. C. Thomas and the balloting commenced with the following result: Baker 64, Ingersoll 16 and Thomas 13.

Nominations for three aldermen were then called for. Prof. J. W. Boyd was nominated by Mr. E. L. Reese for the First Ward. There being no opposition Mr. Boyd was elected by acclamation. Mr. J. E. McGee was nominated in the Second Ward by Mr. J. M. Brooksher who was also elected by acclamation. In the Third Ward three names were nominated, to-wit: W. P. Price, Jr., by Mr. Clyde Meaders, Mr. G. McGuire by W. B. Woodward, and Mr. E. G. Jones by M. G. Head, and a ballot was taken with the following result: Jones 49, Price 24, McGuire 12, which ended the business of the meeting. Col. Baker was called on for a speech who arose and after thanking all for the action of the meeting on his part stated that he would in the transaction of business treat all alike—from the highest to the lowest.

Everything passed off quietly and pleasantly, being one of the most harmonious meetings we ever attended. The election takes place next Saturday and we trust that a full vote will be given these gentlemen, for they are all wide awake up to date men and together with the other aldermen whose terms continue, will transact the business of the city in such a manner as to make every body proud of them.

It being stated that Capt. Ingersoll was a candidate for Mayor, the election to be held on next Saturday, we made enquiry of the gentleman who informed us that he was no candidate now, nor wasn't before the convention.

Mrs. Lee, who was confined in jail last court for malicious prosecution until the cost of the same was paid, was released last Friday by order of Judge Estes, as she was unable to pay it and had punished long enough.

The officers of the college cadets were given a supper by their commandant, Capt. C. C. Cusick and his son at Hall's Villa last Wednesday evening. The entertainment was a most delightful occasion and those present will long remember this happy gathering and the ones who gave it.

Many people have been in this week to pay their taxes before the book closed. As Col. Charters said the other day, there is no use of the collector having to make three rounds every year. He should open an office here for about a couple of months for the convenience of people, for most all the taxes are paid in Dahlonega. They have to come here to sell their produce to get the money, often when the collector is at some other precinct, causing them to have to make two trips. Besides this every thief and pickpocket knows by the collectors advertisements where he is at every day and could easily over power him and get his money. The legislature should change the law and let collectors open an office at the court house.

Strong Drink a Deceiver.

—Strong drink is a deceiver. Said an ugly-looking fellow in the Park to an officer who accosted him as he was busily engaged in writing on a scrap of paper: "I've been figuring my account with old Alcohol; to see how we stand, and he has lied like sixty. You see, he promised to make a man of me, but he made me a beast. Then he said he would brace me up, but he has made me go staggering round and threw me into the ditch. He said I must drink to be social; then he made me quarrel with my best friends and be the laughing stock of my enemies. He gave me a black eye and a broken nose. Then I drank for the good of my health; he ruined the little I had and left me sick as a dog." He said he would warm me up, and I was soon nearly frozen to death. He said he would steady my nerves, but instead he gave me delirium tremens. He said he would give me great strength; and he made me helpless. He promised me courage. Then he made me a coward, for I beat my sick wife and kicked my little child. He said he would brighten my wits; but instead he made me act like a fool and talk like an idiot. He promised to make a gentleman of me; but he has made me a tramp. —Anon.

Impatient for Results.

Why is it that now advertisers always think they'll have to hire a special vault to keep money in just as soon as their announcement appears, notwithstanding the well known fact that all newspaper solicitors invariably tell them that it's only the persistent advertiser who gathers in the dollars? At least so we have been told. Of course they hear of Scotland so spending a thousand a day and getting in two thousand for it, but they seem never to take time to think that for many months the money probably went the other way. It has been demonstrated that advertising pays, and pays big, but it is like everything else—persistence is must enter into any successful advertising campaign. Just remember this when you get ready to advertise, and if you are not willing to stick to it don't begin.—Practical Advertising.

There is one millionaire in the United States to every 20,000 inhabitants.

No fewer than 119 lives have been lost this year in the Alps of Switzerland—more than double the figures of 1900.

Japan sent sixty-three ships through the Suez canal last year, or more than Spain (thirty-four) or Denmark (twenty-seven) and nearly as many as Italy (eighty-two).

General Greely, the meteorologist, who has been seeing the London fogs, expresses the opinion that, with proper data, it would be quite possible to forecast them.

The canal path which for centuries has formed the only connection between Jerusalem and Nabulus Sychem has at last been made into a carriage road nearly twenty feet wide.

Had Children to Burn.

A group of children having a strong family likeness were playing together on the sands at Seabright, with perfect disregard of sunshine beating down on their heads. An old lady with an umbrella and dog passed by and complimented their fond father.

"Ah, so they are all yours? But aren't you afraid their health will suffer in this horrid glare?"

"Not at all," he replied. "You see I have children to burn."—New York Times.

The Waste of Politics.

Two men well versed in politics, according to the Columbia State, calculate the next summer there will be more than forty candidates in the field for State offices in South Carolina. If each one should speak fifteen minutes in each of the forty counties, there would be nearly 24,000 minutes of campaign oratory. Consideration of these figures will demonstrate the terrible waste of politics. Putting ten hours as the length of the working day and $1 as the average day's wage—a low rate, it is true, but yet more than the average office-seeker would be able to earn at legitimate work—and putting the average attendance upon political gatherings at 500 persons we have the following interesting exhibit of time and money wasted:

By the speakers, forty days, equal to $40.

By the aggregate audience, 20,000 days equal to $20,000.

Total, $20,040.

This does not include, of course, the additional loss to be credited to deposits at the dispensaries, to the loss upon shoe-leather, harness wear and tear of vehicles and the general demoralization of the communities absorbed temporarily in a campaign of wind. Is it possible that the state is ever repaid for the loss of the $20,000 alone?

What They Will Do.

One of the largest advertising contracts ever made with the firm was recently entered into by the Chicago Record and one of the Chicago department stores. Under the contract, the Record is to give the firm one page every day except Sunday for one year. For this space $120,000 is to be paid, in addition to using a page of the Record each day, the Chicago firm will also advertise in other Chicago papers to the extent of many thousands of dollars.

During the past year this firm has spent $40,000 in having circulars printed and scattered over Chicago. It has become convinced that this form of advertising has become ineffective and during the next twelve months no circulars of any kind will be issued.

Of all the plans yet devised, newspaper advertising is the best. The newspaper goes into the home circle and is read by every member of the family. It costs much more to purchase newspaper space than it does to print a few thousand circulars, but there is no comparison in the results.—Marquette Journal.

The Tragedy of a Wasted Life

A young man died in San Francisco the other day at the age of 26 years. The paper chronicled the fact, and told a story of a life wasted and wrecked—a piteous, heart rending story. George M. Pullman, son of the Pullman car magnate, plunged headlong into the maelstrom of dissipation, but nature, outraged, disregarded, abused for a few years, exacted at last its full and bitterest penalty. No man ever paid more dearly or more clearly exemplified the inflexible law that claims the last drop of blood as the fee of the wages of sin.

As a boy he was the pride of his father, who hoped that he would carry on the work his own great brain and tireless energy had builded. Endowed with perfect physique sound in body and mind, this son of wealth and influence, stood on mankind's threshold favored by the gods of fortune as few are. Had he lived for the best that was in him there was nothing to which he could not have aspired in America—long life, honor, great wealth, the opportunity to make himself a creditable figure in the life of his country—all these were in his grasp and he threw them away for what?

The privilege of vicious indulgence, utter disregard of every moral law, a steeping of splendid faculties in the "flesh pot," a high roller, a drunkard, a gambler—a man who respected not map, woman or his God, and whose wild escapades were notorious from New York to San Francisco.

With his twin brother, Sanger, this young man "set a page" in Chicago that made people say "that everything that could happen to the Pullman twins had happened, except death." Their shrewd sober old father shocked and heart-broken over his sons, died, leaving them only $1,000 per annum. But it did not check them. George Pullman is dead, and it is said Sanger cannot long survive. Sometimes, too often we grieve to say, it is a curse to be the son of a wealthy father. There is a deep lesson in George M. Pullman's brief span of life and his tragic death.—Rome Tribune.

If all the counties in Georgia are like Lumpkin "Col." Smith, the aspirant for gubernatorial honors will have to continue "tilling the soil" at the expense of poor unfortunate persons who are found guilty of violating the law and are unable to pay their fines and have to work it out. This is why "Col." Smith is such a successful farmer.

If this state would pass a law to prohibit people from spending the money they owe for fine dress and keeping up style the number of daddies in this town would be decreased by about two-thirds.—Ex.

Dispatches from Iceland says that the cigarette mania among boys has become most virulent. The authorities, in order to combat the evil, propose to empower any adult to chastise juvenile offenders and to size all cigarettes that may be found on their persons.

If your seat is too hard stand up. If a rock rises up before you, roll it away, or climb over it. If you want money earn it. If you wish for confidence, prove yourself worthy of it. It takes longer to skin an elephant than a mouse, but the skin is worth something. Do not be content with doing what no other has done—surpass it. Deserve success, and it will come.—Ex.
